Private Sector Development in an Emerging World

Diederik Boer, Harald Sander, Katharina Friz, Antonella Anastasi, 2023-12-04 This book explores the interactions between private sector development public policies and societal institutions with a strong view on contributing to sustainable and inclusive development in emerging countries The private sector is often praised as an engine of economic growth This belief has led to significant efforts to promote private sector development in emerging countries Development agencies prioritize private sector development and national governments are following suit resulting in often huge incentives to stimulate and attract private investment However private sector development is not a panacea for sustainable and inclusive development as the past decades have clearly shown Economic growth societal development and environmental sustainability are often in a sharp conflict and more often than not economic growth has failed to improve the lives of all citizens This book examines the role the state and the private sector should play to benefit from the dynamics of business development while ensuring that these benefits are shared broadly without jeopardizing sustainability The views presented differ in detail but the analyses and case studies presented share common themes namely that the relative roles of state and private sector of should be balanced and that this particular balance should be based on the context of each country in order to make the private public sector interaction work for all people

Forestry Economics John E.

Wagner, 2011-07-26 Forestry Economics introduces students and practitioners to all aspects of the management and economics of forestry The book adopts the approach of managerial economics textbooks and applies this to the unique processes and problems faced by managers of forests While most forestry economics books are written by economists for future economists what many future forest and natural resource managers need is to understand what economic information is and how to use it to make better business and management decisions John E Wagner draws on his twenty years of experience teaching and working in the field of forest resource economics to present students with an accessible understanding of the unique production processes and problems faced by forest and other natural resource managers There are three unique features of this book The first is its organization The material is organized around two common economic models used in forest and natural resources management decision making The second is the use of case studies from various disciplines Outdoor and Commercial Recreation Wood Products Engineering Forest Products and Forestry The purpose of these case studies is to provide students with applications of the concepts being discussed within the text The third is revisiting the question of how to use economic information to make better business decisions at the end of each chapter This ties each chapter to the preceding ones and reinforces the hypothesis that a solid working knowledge of these economic models and the information they contain are necessary for making better business decisions This textbook is an invaluable source of clear and accessible information on forestry economics and management for not only economics students but for students of other disciplines and those already working in forestry and natural resources Economic Development Practices Among Small/rural Community Colleges Tim Esbeck,1993 In developing this compendium of exemplary economic development practices among small and or rural two year colleges the American Association of Community Colleges Commission on Small Rural Community Colleges CSMCC sent out a call for program descriptions to all community colleges with less than 3 000 full time employees or that were self designated as small or rural A sample of the best submissions were selected by committee for inclusion in this publication Following a brief introduction and a listing of CSMCC members the report presents one page summaries of 89 economic development programs The program summaries are grouped into the following categories 1 efforts in entrepreneurship new business development including Bessemer State Technical College s Alabama business incubator program and Phillips County Community College s Arkansas ethanol production facility study 2 processes for technology deployment including Gateway Community Technical College s Connecticut automotive cooperative program and Clovis Community College s New Mexico instruction via fiber optics program 3 industrial recruitment and retention efforts including Alabama Aviation and Technical College s retiree recruitment program and Illinois Central College s economic development consortium and 4 college relationships with business and industry including Allen County Community College s Kansas robotic installation assistance program and Alexandria Technical College s Minnesota center for total quality management training Each program summary includes the program name name of the college the executive officer and the college address the program contact person and his her telephone number a summary of exemplary accomplishments a description of what was done and how it was done resource requirements and a list of key factors in success PAA Vocational-technical Learning Materials Bruce Reinhart,1974 Marketing Communications in Emerging Economies, Volume II Thomas Anning-Dorson,Robert E. Hinson,Stanley Coffie,Genevieve Bosah,Ibn Kailan Abdul-Hamid,2022-01-01 Drawing on the expertise of multi disciplinary scholars from emerging economies this volume aims to share fascinating perspectives on marketing communications by discussing the shift in the power of public relations and highlighting how the small and local use communication effectively to improve performance and shares useful lessons on how to communicate hope by responding to customer emotions during uncertainties The book contains valuable lessons and insights on communicating corporate social responsibility effective social media communication enacting brand purpose through communication and using aesthetics in point of purchase advertising to drive purchase intention It is the first of its kind to highlight key conceptual issues and provide critical empirical evidence on marketing communications in and from emerging economies Corporate executives educators students policymakers and businesses would find this book a useful tool on marketing communication as it lays bare some important strategic and operational insights specific to emerging markets
