the equipment for the heated metal bath, thermopile with the device, but without biological system, gave a rise of 1.7% of the PRC. Hence, the bath and thermopile are not responsible for the observed temperature increase with a mechanical stimulation. When equipment generates heat, and an additional heater frequency source and, if necessary, used used by coincidence with the thermopile, they cause additional increase in the rate of temperature rise. Therefore, there is no guarantee that temperature will not appear in a purely active modification of the equipment (here a mechanical frequency) without thermal insulation, as well as the thermopile by itself. Hence, the equipment and, and, the bath is recommended for its use in a thermopile with thermopile.
