Sweet,1996 The decade of the 1980s saw great change in the educational system This report examines the changing demographics of high school students over the last decade and investigates the impact that these changes may have had on high school dropout rates Specifically the study examined the changing nature of the high school population during the last decade and describes the different effects of various student level characteristics on the propensity for students to drop out of school between 1980 and 1982 compared to 1990 and 1992 The report provides data that depict changes in the characteristics of students families in students economic backgrounds in dropout rates and in the characteristics of dropouts Data show that during the 1980s a growing number of students with characteristics traditionally associated with school failure began attending high school at the same time high school dropout rates decreased by almost 50 percent The declines occurred among students with a variety of characteristics minority and majority students students in intact families and nonintact families and students with children of their own living in their household Many groups of students traditionally considered at risk for school failure dropped out at lower rates in 1990 than in 1980 However there were other groups of students whose dropout rates did not improve These were students from poor families who had histories of poor academic achievement and who had multiple risk factors in their backgrounds The study used data on two cohorts of high school sophomores collected by the National Center for Education Statistics the sophomore cohort of 1980 from the High School and Beyond HS B study and the sophomore cohort of 1990 from the National Education Longitudinal Study of 1988 NELS 88 Appendices contain methodological notes standard error tables and multivariate analyses Eight figures and 57 tables are included LMI

Developing Effective Educational Experiences through Learning Analytics Anderson, Mark, Gavan, Collette, 2016-04-07 The quality of students learning experiences is a critical concern for all higher education institutions With the assistance of modern technological advances educational establishments have the capability to better understand the strengths and weaknesses of their learning programs Developing Effective Educational Experiences through Learning Analytics is a pivotal reference source that focuses on the adoption of data mining and analysis techniques in academic institutions examining how this collected information is utilized to improve the outcome of student learning Highlighting the relevance of data analytics to current educational practices this book is ideally designed for researchers practitioners and professionals actively involved in higher education settings Improving Literacy in America Frederick J. Morrison, Heather J. Bachman, Carol McDonald Connor, 2008-10-01 divAn alarmingly high number of American students continue to lack proficiency in reading math and science The various attempts to address this problem have all too often resulted in silver bullet solutions such as reducing class size or implementing voucher programs But as the authors of this critically important book show improving literacy also requires an understanding of complex and interrelated social issues that shape a child's learning More than twenty years of research demonstrate that literacy success is determined by a combination of sociocultural forces including parenting preschool classroom instruction and other factors that have a direct impact on a child's development Here Frederick J Morrison Heather J Bachman and Carol McDonald Connor present the most up to date research on the diverse factors that relate to a child's literacy development from preschool through early elementary school Urging greater emphasis on the immediate sources of influence on children the authors warn against simple single solutions that ignore other pivotal aspects of the problem In a concluding chapter the authors propose seven specific recommendations for improving literacy recommendations that can make a real difference in American education DIV Army Research and Development, 1972 Army RD & A., 1972 Army RD & A Bulletin
