

UNIT 5 Answer Key (continued)

Core Worksheet 3

Scenario A

1. Is asking students to recite a nondenominational prayer in the classroom a violation of separation of church and state and an endorsement of religion?
2. the school board and a parent of a student at the school
3. Students might respond that the school board's action violated the Establishment Clause by allowing a government-sponsored prayer. Because the prayer was nondenominational and did not support a particular religion, others might argue that the school board's action was legal.

Scenario B

1. Does the government's denial of unemployment benefits to workers who are fired because of their religious beliefs violate the workers' 1st Amendment rights?
2. former employee and State employment office
3. Students might argue that it did because it forced the woman to choose between her job and her religious beliefs.

Scenario C

1. Is it constitutional for the public school district to support a religious education program that endorses a particular religion?
2. parents of two elementary school students and the school board
3. No, it clearly has a religious purpose, it advances a particular religion, and it "entangles" government with religion by taking place in public schools. The school board's decision to allow the program in its elementary schools implies government support or endorsement of this program.

Scenario D

1. Did the school's dress code violate the right of a student to wear a religious head covering in school?
2. the student's family and school officials
3. Some might argue that refusing to allow students to wear religious head coverings violates the Free Exercise Clause of the 1st Amendment. Others might argue that allowing students to wear religious head coverings constitutes an endorsement of religion, violates content neutrality, or shows favoritism to one religious group over others.

Strategy Shelved Steven Wills, 2021-08-15 As U S strategy shifts once again to focus on great power competition Strategy Shelved provides a valuable analytic look back to the Cold War era by examining the rise and eventual fall of the U S Navy's naval strategy system from the post World War II era to 1994 Steven T Wills draws some important conclusions that have relevance to the ongoing strategic debates of today His analysis focuses on the 1970s and 1980s as a period when U S Navy strategic thought was rebuilt after a period of stagnation during the Vietnam conflict and its high water mark in the form of the 1980s maritime strategy and its attendant six hundred ship navy force structure He traces the collapse of this earlier system by identifying several contributing factors the provisions of the Goldwater Nichols Act of 1986 the aftermath of the First Gulf War of 1991 the early 1990s revolution in military affairs and the changes to the Chief of Naval Operations staff in 1992 following the end of the Cold War All of these conditions served to undermine the existing naval strategy system The Goldwater Nichols Act subordinated the Navy to joint control with disastrous effects on the long serving cohort of uniformed naval strategists The first Gulf War validated Army and Air Force warfare concepts developed in the Cold War but not those of the Navy's maritime strategy The Navy executed its own revolution in military affairs during the Cold War through systems like AEGIS but did not get credit for those efforts Finally the changes in the Navy OPNAV staff in 1992 served to empower the budget arm of OPNAV at the expense of its strategists These measures laid the groundwork for a thirty year strategy of means where service budgets a desire to preserve existing force structure and lack of strategic vision hobbled not only the Navy but also the Joint Force's ability to create meaningful strategy to counter a rising China and a revanchist Russian threat Wills concludes his analysis with an assessment of the return of naval strategy documents in 2007 and 2015 and speculates on the potential for success of current Navy strategies including the latest tri service maritime strategy His research makes extensive use of primary sources oral histories and navy documents to tell the story of how the U S Navy created both successful strategies and how a dedicated group of naval officers were intimately involved in their creation It also explains how the Navy's ability to create strategy and even the process for training strategy writers was seriously damaged in the post Cold War era
