Mawere,R. Mubaya,2017-08-09 For a long time African Studies as a discipline has been spearheaded by academics and institutions in the Global North This puts African Studies on the continent at a crossroads of making choices on whether such a discipline can be legitimately accepted as an epistemological discipline seeking objectivity and truth about Africa and the African peoples or a discipline meant to perpetuate the Norths hegemonic socio economic political and epistemic control over Africa The compound question that immediately arises is Who should produce what and which space should African Studies occupy in the academy both of the North and of the South Confronted by such a question one wonders whether the existence of African Studies Centres in the Global North academics open opportunities for critical thinking on Africa or it opens possibilities for the emergence of the same discipline in Africa as a fertile space for trans disciplinary debate While approaches critical for the development of African Studies are pervasive in African universities through fields such as cultural studies social anthropology history sociology indigenous knowledge studies and African philosophy the discipline of African Studies though critical to Africa is rarely practised as such in the African academy and its future on the continent remains bleak African Studies in the Academy is a testimony that if honestly and objectively practised the crossroads position of African Studies as a discipline makes it a fertile ground for generating and testing new approaches critical for researching and understanding Africa It also challenges Africa to seriously consider assuming its legitimate position to champion African Studies from within These issues are at the heart of the present volume Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Zimbabwe's

Liberation Struggle Munyaradzi Nyakudya,Wesley Mwatwara,Joseph Mujere,2022-11-15 This book provides a timely reconceptualization of Zimbabwe s anti colonial liberation struggle resisting simple binaries in favour of more nuanced critical analysis Most historiographies characterize Zimbabwe s liberation struggle as being defined by simple bifurcations along racial ethnic class and ideological perspectives This book argues that the nationalist struggle is far more complex than such simple configurations would suggest and that many actors have been overlooked in the analysis The book broadens our understanding by analysing the roles of a wide range of political figures organizations and members of the military as well as the media and the often overlooked part that women played Over the course of the book the contributors also reflect on the ways in which revolutionary figures have been repainted as sellouts in particular by the ZANU PF ruling party and what that means for the country's interpretation of their recent past. Highlighting in particular the expertise of leading scholars from within Zimbabwe across a range of disciplines, this book will be of interest to researchers of African history, politics and postcolonial studies. Society, Power, and Land in Northeastern Zimbabwe, ca. 1560–1960 Admire Mseba, 2024-11-12

A little over two decades ago Zimbabwe undertook its Fast Track Land Reform Programme. Critics saw it as nothing more than an assault on human and property rights for political expedience by a ruling elite that was fast losing its power. In contrast, those sympathetic to the land reform program saw it as fundamental to the righting of colonialism's historical wrongs. Yet rural displacements at the hands of state actors or of those closely connected to them continue. As in the past, the continuing land conflicts are mostly understood as the result of the actions of an authoritarian state that exploits its control of land for the political and economic benefit of those who inhabit it. These explanations share one thing in common: each understands the country's perpetual land questions in terms of the actions or inactions of the colonial or the postcolonial state. This book refocuses attention on how regimes of power rooted in kinship, gender, generation and status have individually and in combination informed access to land in precolonial northeastern Zimbabwe. It then examines how these regimes of power interacted with colonial policies to inform the African experience in colonial Zimbabwe. Further, the book places land and the ability to ensure its fecundity at the center of the making and moderation of precolonial political power and how this power was impacted by the imposition of colonial rule. Tracing the dynamics of land and power from precolonial times together with their entanglement with colonial policies is important for this relationship is almost always neglected by both scholars and policymakers drawn to the high drama of colonial and postcolonial politics of land. This oversight has real consequences on our understandings of landed inequalities and how they are addressed. When Zimbabwe's postcolonial state focused on colonially induced racialized land inequalities, its land reform efforts left older forms of landed inequalities based on gender, generation and ideas of belonging intact. The book, which details these inequalities, reminds Zimbabweans and others that if the quest for equity espoused in postcolonial land reforms is to be meaningful, it must be attentive to both colonially induced inequalities and those enduring disparities that predated, were deepened by and outlived colonial rule. At the same time, Zimbabweans who now live with a postcolonial state that is increasingly centralizing power over land may well learn from past societies' creative efforts to limit the authority of their leaders.

Abundant Life and Basic Needs Nyoni, Bednicho, 2019. Western neglecting traditional religion is an important factor for the failure of many developmental strategies towards Africa. Therefore, religion of the indigenous peoples must be given the necessary attention. The book presents the example of the Shona religion playing a critical role in the life of the Zimbabweans. If incorporated, it will contribute to the better success of development initiatives. back cover

Names Fashioned by Gender Thenjiwe Meyiwa, Madoda Cekiso, 2023-12-01. Names are very powerful and significant, especially in the African context. Across societies, there is a universal, albeit taken-for-granted fact that all human beings have names. Names Fashioned by Gender is a collection of essays on onomastics a linguistics field of study focusing on the origin form history and use of proper names The study of naming potentially provides significant evidence about the role of gender in the assimilation and or enculturation processes as personal names evoke insight into the construction of gender and personhood in African societies The book takes intellectual course from the idea that how names are viewed and used is heavily context dependent and gendered It demonstrates that personal names are narratives derived from different contexts within various cultures and circumstances subsequently imposing different identities on name bearers Through persuasive essays this book elucidates that naming is an activity that needs to be conducted cautiously because names tend to determine the destiny and character of an individual

Grid-locked African Economic Sovereignty Warikandwa, Tapiwa Victor,Nhemachena, Artwell,2019-02-06 The emergent so called Fourth Industrial Revolution is regarded by some as a panacea for bringing about development to Africans This book dismisses this flawed reasoning Surfacing how investors are actually looting and plundering Africa how the industrial internet of things the gig economies digital economies and cryptocurrencies breach African political and economic sovereignty the book pioneers what can be called anticipatory economics which anticipate the future of economies It is argued that the future of Africans does not necessarily require degrowth postgrowth postdevelopment postcapitalism or sharing solidarity economies it requires attention to age old questions about African ownership and control of their resources Investors have to invest in ensuring that Africans own and control their resources Further it is pointed out that the historical imperial structural creation of forced labour is increasingly morphing into what we call the structural creation of forced leisure which is no less lethal for Africans Because both the structural creation of forced labour and the structural creation of forced leisure are undergirded by transnational neo imperial plunder theft robbery looting and dispossession of Africans this book goes beyond the simplistic arguments that Euro America developed due to the industrial revolutions
