Negotiating Marginality Mahana Rajakishor, 2019-03-01 Providing a critical ethnography of five different tribal movements fighting against the mega industrialization projects in Odisha India the book presents a thick description of the confrontation of the tribals to the authoritative forces of state domination This confrontation a counter hegemonic discourse is neither antagonistic to change nor anti to development but rather in fact the author argues that the tribals are the subaltern citizens who aspire for not only more material and economic prosperity but also freedom freedom from domination and deprivation The book therefore seeks to answer one important question how do the tribals appropriate marginality in their everyday lives in challenging domination and celebrating their desires wishes anticipations and material prosperity as well as in coping with the ruins of frustration and suffering Drawing on long term ethnographic fieldwork carried over a decade 2006-16 this book provides empirical evidences and conceptual explorations on the resistance of subaltern citizens against domination The author challenges current theories of social movements which claim that a cultural critique of the development paradigm is writ large in the political actions of those marginalized by development tribals who lived in harmony with nature combining reverence for nature with the sustainable management of resources On the other hand questioning the established notion of marginality as a problem the author re-visits marginality as a possible site that nourishes the capacity of the tribals to resist and to imagine and create a new world The complexity of tribal politics then cannot be reduced to an opposition between development and resistance The book therefore persuades us to re-examine the politics of representation within the ideology of progressive movements Please note Taylor Francis does not sell or distribute the Hardback in India Pakistan Nepal Bhutan Bangladesh and Sri Lanka
