Introduction to cost and management accounting

1.1 Differences between financial and cost and management accounting

Users of accounting information Cost and management accounting is concerned with the provision of information to managers to help them in decision-making, planning and control, whereas financial accounting is concerned with the provision of information to external users outside the business.

Segments Financial accounting reports refer to the whole of the organization, whereas cost and management accounting focuses on small parts of the organization, for example individual products or activities.

Emphasis on the future Financial accounting reports what has happened in the past, whereas management accounting is concerned with future information as well as past information.

Legal requirements There is a legal requirement for public limited companies to produce annual financial accounts. Cost and management accounting is entirely optional and information should only be produced if the benefits from using the information exceed the cost of collecting it.

Frequency of reporting Financial accounts are published annually but management requires information quickly if they are to act on it. Therefore management accounting reports may be prepared at daily, weekly or monthly intervals.

Note that less detailed published financial accounts are normally prepared on a semi-annual basis

Approximations Financial accounting information must be accurate, otherwise external users would have little confidence in the content of the published accounts. Management requires information rapidly, and more approximate information which is speedily prepared is normally sufficient for management purposes.

1.2 Objectives of cost and management accounting

Cost and management accounting is concerned with:

- (a) Accumulating costs for stock valuation to meet the requirements of external reporting
