Universities, Sustainability and Society: Supporting the Implementation of the Sustainable Development

Goals Walter Leal Filho, Amanda Lange Salvia, Luciana Brandli, Ulisses M. Azeiteiro, Rudi Pretorius, 2021-05-03 In order to yield the expected benefits sustainability initiatives need to be undertaken by means of a close cooperation between universities on the one hand and societal partners on the others The principle of co creation and co execution of sustainability initiatives increases the value for all by mutual learning and the sharing of expertise and resources But pursuing sustainability initiatives with a community and societal involvement is not simple There is a perceived need for a better understanding of how universities can interact with society in order to support the implementation of the UN Sustainable Development Goals This book is an attempt to address this need by a novel approach which focuses on current potentials and challenges across a wide range of fields and expertise The book focuses on how the theory and practice of sustainable development interact and shows the need for a continuation of the dialogue among sustainability academics and practitioners so as to address the issues matters and problems at hand The spectrum of themes addressed on this book also entails how environmental values and ethics are applied and the relationship between social biological and cultural diversity It also includes a broad disciplinary approach to sustainability including education research and case studies and the links with human environment relations in a sustainable development context

Architecture, State Modernism and Cultural Nationalism in the Apartheid Capital Hilton Judin, 2021-04-08 This book is the first comprehensive investigation of the architecture of the apartheid state in the period of rapid economic growth and political repression from 1957 to 1966 when buildings took on an ideological role that was never remote from the increasingly dominant administrative legislative and policing mechanisms of the regime It considers how this process reflected the usurpation of a regional modernism and looks to contribute to wider discourses on international postwar modernism in architecture Buildings in Pretoria that came to embody ambitions of the apartheid state for industrialisation and progress serve as case studies These were widely acclaimed projects that embodied for apartheid officials the pursuit of modernisation but carried latent apprehensions of Afrikaners about their growing economic prospects and cultural estrangement in Africa It is a less known and marginal story due to the dearth of material and documents buried in archives and untranslated documents Many of the documents drawings and photographs in the book are unpublished and include classified material and photographs from the National Nuclear Research Centre negatives of 1960s from Pretoria News and documents and pamphlets from Afrikaner Broederbond archives State architecture became the most iconic public manifestation of an evolving expression of white cultural identity as a new generation of architects in Pretoria took up the challenge of finding form to their prospects and beliefs It was an opportunistic faith in Afrikaners who urgently needed to entrench their vulnerable and contested position on the African continent The shift from provincial town to apartheid capital was swift and relentless Little was left to stand in the way of the ambitions and aim of the state as people were uprooted and forcibly relocated structures torn down and block upon block of administration towers and slabs erected across Pretoria This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of architectural history as well as those with an interest in postcolonial studies political science and social anthropology shaped mainly by the economic expectations of us humans Today s pig has superior reproductive fattening and carcass traits compared to its ancient ancestors This could not be achieved without the highly effective support of scientific research aimed at revealing the genetic basis underlying the important economic traits of pigs and the involvement of novel technologies in phenotyping these animals both in vivo and post mortem Yet the research is spreading beyond the biological issues connected to the production of pigs and their products The latest developments in computer science and informatics technology enable us to collect and store information from all stages in the production of food leading back to its origin Questions about the breed the way the pigs were raised how were they managed and how they were processed into a wide palette of products can be answered by the use of methodologies developed by data scientists and those from the fields of different omics All this information can be passed along the chain to consumers in a repeatable manner The producers can use these data to manage such complex issues as meat or product quality And this closes the circle Tracing the domestic pig is an attempt to present the current knowledge about this valuable animal its origin composition and the food that it gives us and to predict or foresee what can happen to this species in the time to come
