Teacher Education in Diverse Settings Larry Prochner, Ailie Cleghorn, Anna Kirova, Christine Massing, 2016-09-27 Teacher Education in Diverse Settings presents a study of initial educator preparation in three social contexts a training program for immigrant child care educators in Canada a pre and lower primary specialization in a teacher education program in Namibia and a partnership between the Misak indigenous communities in Colombia and the University of Cauca to deliver courses for educators within their communities In each setting the book explores the relationships between indigenous ways of thinking and western discourse in reference to the preparation of educators whether they be teachers community leaders or newly arrived immigrants in Canada In each case the authors focus is on the tensions between the local understandings and global ideas and the creation of space for diverse but intersecting worldviews The book's goal is to investigate ways that teacher educators parents and communities can better prepare children for the realities of schooling while preserving the integrity of local norms and values through educator preparation programs Philosophical Inquiry with Children Gilbert Burgh, Simone Thornton, 2018-12-07 Philosophy in schools in Australia dates back to the 1980s and is rooted in the Philosophy for Children curriculum and pedagogy Seeing potential for educational change Australian advocates were quick to develop new classroom resources and innovative programs that have proved influential in educational practice throughout Australia and internationally Behind their contributions lie key philosophical and educational discussions and controversies which have shaped attempts to introduce philosophy in schools and embed it in state and national curricula Drawing together a wide range of eminent scholars and practitioners in the field of educational philosophy this anthology the first of its kind provides not only a historical narrative but an opportunity to reflect on the insights and experiences of the authors that have made history The collection is divided into three parts The overarching theme of Part I is the early years of Philosophy for Children in Australia and how they informed the course that the philosophy in schools movement would take Part II focuses on the events and debates surrounding the development and production of new materials including arguments for and against the suitability of the original Philosophy for Children curriculum In Part III key developments relating to teaching philosophy in schools are analysed This collection of diverse views critical appraisals and different perspectives of historical currents is intended to stimulate thought provoking questions about theory and practice and to increase general awareness both nationally and internationally of the maturation of philosophy in schools in Australia It is also intended to encourage readers to identify emerging ideas and develop strategies for their implementation Mega-universities and Knowledge Media John Daniel, 2013-05-13 A discussion of how the knowledge media can contribute to the renewal of universities particularly through the development of distance education It looks at universities which have risen to the challenges of cost and accessibility using technology Decolonising Media and Communication Studies Education in Sub-Saharan Africa Selina Linda Mudavanhu, Shepherd Mpofo, Kezia Batisai, 2023-10-27 The book provides insights on decolonising media and communication studies education from diverse African scholars at different stages of their careers. These academics located on the continent and in the diaspora share an interest in decolonising higher education broadly and media and communication studies teaching and learning in particular. Although many African countries gained flag independence from different European colonial powers between the 1950s and the 1970s, this book argues that former colonies remain ensnared in a colonial power matrix. Many African universities did not jettison ways of teaching and learning established during colonialism and even those journalism communication and media studies training programmes which were established after the attainment of flag independence did not place decolonial agendas at the front and centre when setting them up. Starting with big picture thematic questions around decolonisation, the book goes on to consider what the implications of change would be for students and instructors before reflecting on how far it is possible to decolonise curricula and syllabi and what this might look like in practice across a range of subject areas and country contexts. Overall, this book presents a nuanced picture of what a decolonised media and communication studies education could look like in sub-Saharan Africa. This book is essential for researchers in Africa in disciplines such as media and communication studies, journalism, film studies, cultural studies and higher education studies. More broadly, the concepts and ideas on decolonising teaching and learning discussed in the book are relevant to instructors in any discipline who are interested in doing the decolonial work of contesting coloniality.

The Strategic Repositioning of Arts, Culture and Heritage in the 21st Century George Mugovhani, Owen Seda, 2018-06-11. The post-millennium world has been experiencing several recognisable historical milestones with regard to arts, culture and heritage. One of these has been the resuscitation and revival of creative elements of the arts, culture and heritage of previously marginalised or disadvantaged communities around the world. Until recently, there had been scant regard and skewed allocation of resources for these, but lately attempts have been made to promote and sustain them in order to enable the socio-economic aspirations of a multicultural society. The contributions brought together here are the product of papers that were presented during a conference on Strategic Repositioning of Arts, Culture and Heritage in the 21st Century. They cover a broad spectrum of subjects such as indigeneity, music, song and identity, politics, national reconciliation, education, product development and national development.

International Handbook of Universities, 2010. The Future of Accessibility in International Higher Education Alphin Jr., Henry C., Chan, Roy Y., Lavine, Jennie, 2017-05-17. Education is the foundation to almost all successful lives and it is important that a high level of schooling be available on a global scale. Studying the trends in accessibility in education will allow educators to improve their own teaching techniques as well as expand their influence to more remote areas in the world. The Future of Accessibility in International Encyclopedia of Higher Education, 1977 Education, Repression & Liberation Justin Ellis, 1984. Study on the historical evolution and long term prospects of the educational system in Namibia; comments on the impact of apartheid; covers schooling, educational expenditure and educational reforms; considers the education of Namibian refugees and educational policy of the SWAPO national liberation movement. Bibliography, diagrams, graphs, maps. The De Lange Report C. Van Zyl, 1991. Recommendations aimed at a more just educational dispensation in the RSA were put forward in the report of the Main Committee of the 1981 HSRC Investigation into Education. Provision of Education in the RSA. This follow up investigation considers the extent to which the recommendations put forward in 1981 have since been implemented. The HSRC recommendations on the principles, management, structure, educational structure, supportive structures and programmes for educational provision were followed up with regard to the formal education sector and by means of a literature study. Official policy documents, legislation, annual reports of government departments and other sources were consulted. It was found that new legislation enabled the implementation of the recommendations on educational principles and management but in a predetermined political dispensation. Different education departments handled the HSRC recommendations on other aspects in different ways. A new look at issues surrounding educational provision was necessitated by the advent of a new political dispensation and much of the 1981 recommendations seemed to be reflected in the official proposals for educational renewal recently put forward by educational planners and executive officers. Further implementation would also depend on the interaction between political, economic and social factors.

This book explores the experiences and activities of students across the twentieth century and throughout the United Kingdom and Ireland. The daily experiences of students, their involvement in local communities, national political organisations and widespread cultural changes are the main focus of this ground breaking book. It takes students themselves as the subject of inquiry, exploring the fundamental importance of student activities within wider social and political changes and also how some of the key changes across the twentieth century have shaped and changed the make up, experiences and lives of students. This book charts the experiences of students throughout a period of unprecedented change as being a student in Britain and Ireland has gone from the endeavour of a small number of elite, mainly wealthy white men to an important phase of life undertaken by the majority of young people. Ulrich's
