Our Zimbabwe Arthur Jim Patsanza,1988 Education and Government Control in Zimbabwe Dickson A. Mungazi,1990-01-19 This pioneering study argues that the bitter civil war that thrust Zimbabwe into international headlines from 1966 to 1979 had its roots in the reports issued by the colonial commissions of inquiry into education As the author explains in his introduction these commissions and the reports they issued which reinforced separate educational systems for African and white students reached far beyond educational policy in their effects Basing his work on original documents and materials which have not appeared in print before most of which were only recently declassified by the government of Zimbabwe the author shows the profound influence these reports had on government policy on government control of opportunity in general and on the relationships between and among institutions within the country Following an introductory overview Mungazi turns to a discussion of the specific issues which the commissions were appointed to investigate Separate chapters are then devoted to the circumstances surrounding the naming of commissions their findings and recommendations and the implications of implementing their recommendations on the character of colonial society itself This chronological treatment enables the author to focus particularly on how the recommendations of the commissions constituted a sequence of developments that led inevitably to conflict The final chapter draws some conclusions regarding the social environment that produced a major national conflict and discusses what might be learned from the tragic events that took place in Zimbabwe from 1966 to 1979 Zimbabwe Journal of Educational Research ,2002 Teacher Education and A-level Biology Teaching Josephine Zesaguli,1994 Access of Girls and Women to Scientific, Technical and Vocational Education in Africa Augustin Mariro,1999 Proceedings of the ...
