Administration of Higher Education Walter Crosby Eells,Ernest Victor Hollis,1960 Administration of Higher Education, an Annotated Bibliography United States. Education Office,1966 Bulletin ,1960 Bulletin United States. Office of Education,1960 History of Soybeans and Soyfoods in China and Taiwan, and in Chinese Cookbooks, Restaurants, and Chinese Work with Soyfoods Outside China (1024 BCE to 2014) William Shurtleff,H.T. Huang,Akiko Aoyagi,2014-06-22 The world s most comprehensive well documented and well illustrated book on this subject With extensive index 372 photographs and illustrations Free of charge in digital format on Google Books Exploiting East Asian Cinemas Ken Provencher,Mike Dillon,2018-01-11 From the 1970s onward exploitation cinema as a concept has circulated inside and outside of East Asian nations and cultures in terms of aesthetics and marketing However crucial questions about how global networks of production and circulation alter the identity of an East Asian film as mainstream or as exploitation have yet to be addressed in a comprehensive way Exploiting East Asian Cinemas serves as the first authoritative guide to the various ways in which contemporary cinema from and about East Asia has trafficked across the somewhat elusive line between mainstream and exploitation Focusing on networks of circulation distribution and reception this collection treats the exploitation cinemas of East Asia as mobile texts produced consumed and in many ways re appropriated across national and hemispheric boundaries As the processes of globalization have decoupled products from their nations of origin transnational taste cultures have declared certain works as art or trash regardless of how those works are received within their native locales By charting the routes of circulation of notable films from Japan China and South Korea this anthology contributes to transnationally accepted formulations of what constitutes East Asian exploitation cinema Challenges in Partially Automated Driving Ignacio Solís Marcos,2018-05-14 The technological development in recent years is currently reflected in the implementation of more and more advanced driver assistance systems ADAS A clear example is found in the automated driving systems being marketed today Some of these systems are capable of controlling crucial driving tasks such as keeping the vehicle within the lane or maintaining speed and the distance with the front vehicle constant While this technology is still not mature enough to allow fully autonomous driving current systems allow partially automated driving or Level 2 SAE 2016 Level 2 automation enables feet free and for short periods hands free driving under specific situations Yet the driver is still expected to monitor the road and the system and be ready to intervene when required by the system Regarding this studies from the driving and other domains have warned about potential performance problems associated with placing operators in such monitoring role Factors such as vigilance decrements or proneness to engage in other activities have been proposed to explain these problems however their role in the context of Level 2 automation remains to be further investigated In this context the main aims of this thesis were to understand the attentional effects of monitoring a Level 2 automated system and to investigate drivers strategies to integrate additional tasks while using such system In particular the following research questions were established 1 Does monitoring a Level 2 system affect driver attention after short driving periods 2 Does Level 2 automation facilitate the performance of additional tasks 3 How do drivers integrate additional tasks into their monitoring responsibilities and how is that influenced by automation trust and experience A complementary aim of this thesis was to explore the applicability of the event related potentials ERPs technique to detect the effects of different types of ADAS i e Level 2 automation and a visual in vehicle information system IVIS on drivers attention and on specific processing resources Three studies were conducted to address the aforementioned research questions In Study I and III the participants were asked to drive Level 2 automated and manually while performing an auditory oddball task Study I or a visuomotor task Study III In Study II the participants were instructed to perform a computer tracking task with or without the support of an artificial visual IVIS while executing a secondary auditory oddball task Measurements included performance indicators from the primary and secondary tasks as well as subjective and psychophysiological measures ERPs N1 and P3 amplitude and latencies elicited by the auditory oddball task were used to assess the participants attentional resource allocation Glance behaviour was also recorded to analyse drivers visual monitoring strategies in Study III In addition subjective measures of mental workload vigilance or automation trust were collected Last driving parameters such as speed time spent on the left lane or number overtakings were used to account for driving strategies to integrate an additional task while driving Level 2 automated or manually Study III As hypothesized monitoring a Level 2 automated system for short periods led to lower perceived demands and to reductions in the allocation of attentional resources to the auditory oddball task as shown by lower amplitudes in the P3 component Study I In Study III driving Level 2 automated led to worse performances on an additional visuomotor task compared to when driving manually which contradicted our expectations Additionally when the system was active drivers tended to look less to the road and more to the dashboard however only drivers with automation experience or who perceived the system as more robust increased their visual attention to the additional task Furthermore the results from Study II showed that some specific ERPs parameters namely N1 latency and P3 amplitude were also sensitive to the demands of IVIS while performing the tracking task Based on previous studies Young and Stanton 2002 the lower attentional resource allocation observed in Study I could reflect a cognitive underload effect induced by the Level 2 automated driving Cognitive underload is proposed as one of the explaining mechanisms for the observed worse performances in the additional visuomotor task during the automated conditions in Study III However other effects such as overload or task interferences could also explain this Finally the results revealed by the ERPs in Studies I and II suggest that this could be a useful technique to detect alterations in drivers attention due to the excessive high or low demands placed by different ADAS ERPs also showed a greater diagnosticity than other measures in the detection of specific task requirements of perceptual and cognitive resources Thus ERPs may be useful as a complementary tool to other mental workload measures Given that drivers need to remain attentive at all times while interacting with a Level 2 automated vehicle the use of countermeasures to mitigate the negative attentional effects reported in this thesis is highly recommended Specific training programs enhancing drivers knowledge of the system or the implementation of systems that inform about the system reliability or detect inadequate driver states could be promising solutions

Imaginaries of Modernity John Rundell, 2016-12-01 This book offers a new perspective on the issue of modernity through a series of interconnected essays Drawing centrally on the works of Castoriadis Luhmann Heller and Lefort and in critical discussion with Weber Durkheim Simmel Adorno Habermas and Taylor the author argues that modernity is not only a unique historical creation but also a multiple one With a focus on five broad themes the problem of understanding of modernity after the decline of grand narratives the complexity of the modern condition politics especially with reference to freedom and totalitarian regimes the variety and density of modern life and the centrality of a concept of culture to social and critical theory John Rundell advances the view that modernity is not the outcome of an evolutionary process or historical development but is unique and indeterminate as are the constitutive dimensions that can be identified as modern There are then different modernities A rigorous engagement with a range of prominent and contemporary social theorists Imaginaries of Modernity casts new light on the significance of understanding the multidimensional character of modernity and the plurality of its forms beyond the conventional paradigms associated with only the West As such it will appeal to scholars of social theory critical theory sociology and philosophy concerned with questions of culture politics and modernity

Chasing Archipelagic Dreams David R. Saunders, 2024-12-15 In Chasing Archipelagic Dreams David R Saunders demonstrates that the withdrawal of the British imperial state from Sabah did not result in the decolonization of the territory From the late 1940s to the 1960s international anti colonialism interacted with regional competition over Sabah to result in a paradoxical increase of British power and influence on the ground Meanwhile ethnic social and political heterogeneity in Sabah contributed to fragmentation and disunity undermining the development of a local anti colonial movement Instead a class of influential local elites seized power as competing attempts by the Philippines Indonesia and Malaya to incorporate the territory into their respective archipelagic spheres grew in strength Due to these local and international rivalries Saunders argues Sabah s eventual merger with the Federation of Malaysia in 1963 prompted an extension of colonial style rule resource extraction the suppression of local autonomy and the imposition of an externally configured national identity Chasing Archipelagic Dreams underscores the significance of regional rivalries in the South China Sea and highlights the fate of subaltern communities bisected by post colonial borders

Walker,2018-03-15 While in the ICU with a near fatal case of pneumonia Brett Walker was asked Do you have a family history of illness a standard and deceptively simple question that for Walker a professional historian took on additional meaning and spurred him to investigate his family s medical past In this deeply personal narrative he constructs a history of his body to understand his diagnosis with a serious immunological disorder weaving together his dying grandfather s sneaking a cigarette in a shed on the family s Montana farm blood fractionation experiments in Europe during World War II and nineteenth century cholera outbreaks that ravaged small American towns as his ancestors were making their way west A Family History of Illness is a gritty historical memoir that examines the body s immune system and microbial composition as well as the biological and cultural origins of memory and history offering a startling fresh way to view the role of history in understanding our physical selves In his own search Walker soon realizes that this broader scope is more valuable than a strictly medical family history He finds that family legacies shape us both physically and symbolically forming the root of our identity and values and he urges us to renew our interest in the past or risk misunderstanding ourselves and the world around us
