This Side of Brightness Colum McCann, 2013-08-01 By the author of Let the Great World Spin this critically acclaimed novel delves deep into the underbelly of New York Vivid potent beautifully measured and sustained by astonishingly deft description Maggie O Farrell A dazzling blend of menace and heartbreak New York Times Book Review

_____ At the turn of the twentieth century Nathan Walker comes to New York City to take the most dangerous job in the country digging the tunnel far beneath the Hudson that will carry trains from Brooklyn to Manhattan In the bowels of the riverbed the workers black white Irish and Italian dig together the darkness erasing all differences But above ground the men keep their distance until a dramatic accident on a bitter winter s day welds a bond between Walker and his fellow workers that will both bless and curse three generations Almost ninety years later a homeless man nicknamed Treefrog stumbles on the same tunnels and sets about creating a home amongst the drug addicts alcoholics prostitutes and petty criminals that comprise the forgotten homeless community This Side of Brightness Colum McCann, 1998 In two magical scenes almost ninety years apart McCann sets in motion a novel of extraordinary scope and rich beauty Ostensibly a love story in three generations the novel is about many other things about the building and decline of America about the races who live there about love hope and despair but most of all about the survival of the human spirit This Side of

Gerhard Stolz, 2007 Post Celtic Tiger Landscapes in Irish Fiction Marie Mianowski, 2016-11-03 Post Celtic Tiger Landscapes in Irish Fiction discusses the representations of place and landscape in Irish fiction since 2008 It includes novels and short stories by William Trevor Dermot Bolger Anne Enright Donal Ryan Claire Kilroy Kevin Barry Gerard Donovan Danielle McLaughlin Trisha McKinney Billy O Callaghan and Colum McCann In the light of writings by geographers anthropologists and philosophers such as Doreen Massey Tim Ingold Giorgio Agamben and Jeff Malpas this book looks at the metamorphoses of place and landscape representations in fiction by confirmed or debut authors in the aftermath of a crisis with deep economic as well as cultural consequences for Irish society It shows what place and landscape representations reveal of the past while discussing the way notions such as boundedness openness and emergence can contribute to thinking out space and place and designing future landscapes Understanding Colum McCann John Cusatis, 2012-08-24 The first critical approach to the literary career of the 2009 National Book Award winner Understanding Colum McCann chronicles the Irish born writer s journey to literary celebrity from his days as a teenage sportswriter for the Irish Press in the 1970s through the publication of his award winning first story Tresses in 1990 to his winning the 2009 National Book Award in fiction for the international bestseller Let the Great World Spin In this first critical study of McCann s body of work John Cusatis provides an introduction to McCann s life and career an overview of his major themes style and influences and close readings of his two short story collections and five novels Cusatis traces McCann's redefinition of the Irish novel exploring the author's propensity for transcending aesthetic cultural ethnic geographical and social boundaries in his ascent from the status of Irish novelist to international novelist In the process this study illuminates the various incarnations of McCann's perennial subject exile both geographical and emotional Cusatis also delineates how the influences of McCann's Irish upbringing penchant for international travel and exhaustive and eclectic reading of literature manifest themselves in his fiction Close attention is given to McCann's stylistic trademarks such as his poetic voice use of Christian symbolism Irish and classical mythology intertextuality multiple viewpoints nonlinear plot structure and the merger of what McCann deems factual truth and textual truth Understanding Colum McCann makes use of the existing body of published interviews profiles and critical articles as well as a decade of correspondence between Cusatis and McCann With international interest in McCann on the rise this first full length study of his career to date serves as an ideal point of entrance for students scholars and serious readers and offers the biographical and critical foundation necessary for a deeper understanding of McCann's fiction

As It Was David Sarles, 2024-04-30 As It Was traces the challenges the author faces looking inward in traveling outward and discovering in American writers stories of flight loss guilt posturing and love the challenges confronting readers

Waiting for the End Earl G. Ingersoll, 2007 Waiting for the End examines two dozen contemporary novels within the context of a half century of theorizing about the function of ending in narrative That theorizing about ending generated a powerful dynamic a quarter century ago with the advent of feminist criticism of masculinist readings of the role played by ending in fiction Feminists such as Theresa de Lauretis in 1984 and more famously Susan Winnett in her 1991 PMLA essay Coming Unstrung were leading voices in a swelling chorus of theorist pointing out the masculinist bias of ending in narrative With the entry of feminist readings of ending it became inevitable that criticism of fiction would become gendered through the recognition of difference transcending a simple binary of female male to establish a spectrum of masculine to feminine endings regardless of the sex of the writer Accordingly Waiting for the End examines pairs of novels one pair by Margaret Atwood and one by Ian McEwan to demonstrate how a writer can offer endings at either end of the gender spectrum

Conversations with Colum McCann Earl G. Ingersoll, Mary C. Ingersoll, 2017-07-13 Conversations with Colum McCann brings together eighteen interviews with a world renowned fiction writer Ranging from his 1994 literary debut Fishing the Sloe Black River to a new and unpublished interview conducted in 2016 these interviews represent the development as well as the continuation of McCann's interests The number and length of the later conversations attest to his star power Let the Great World Spin earned him the National Book Award and promises to become a major motion picture His most recent novel TransAtlantic has awed readers with its dynamic yoking of the 1845-1846 visit of Frederick Douglass to Ireland the 1919 first nonstop transatlantic flight of Alcock and Brown and Senator George Mitchell's 1998 efforts to achieve a peace accord in Northern Ireland An extensive interview by scholar Cecile Maudet is included here as is an interview by John Cusatis who wrote Understanding Colum McCann the first extensive critical analysis of McCann's work. An author who actually enjoys talking about his work, McCann's 1965 offers insights into his method of writing, what he hopes to achieve, as well as the challenge of writing each novel to go beyond his accomplishments in the novel before. Readers will note how many of his responses include stories in which he himself is the object of the humor, and how often his remarks reveal insights into his character as a man who sees the grittiness of the urban landscape but never loses faith in the strength of ordinary people and their capacity to prevail.

Irish Literature in the Celtic Tiger Years 1990 to 2008 Susan Cahill, 2011-04-01 When Irish culture and economics underwent rapid changes during the Celtic Tiger Years, Anne Enright, Colum McCann, and N Dhuibhne began writing. Now that period of Irish history has closed, this study uncovers how their writing captured that unique historical moment. By showing how N Dhuibhne's novels act as considered arguments against attempts to disavow the past, how McCann's protagonists come to terms with their history, and how Enright's fiction explores connections and relationships with the female body, Susan Cahill's study pinpoints common concerns for contemporary Irish writers: the relationship between the body, memory, and history; between generations and between past and present. Cahill is able to raise wider questions about Irish culture by looking specifically at how writers engage with the body. In exploring the writers' concern with embodied histories, related questions concerning gender, race, and Irishness are brought to the fore. Such interrogations of corporeality alongside history are imperative, making this a significant contribution to ongoing debates of feminist theory in Irish Studies.

Haunting and the Educational Imagination Barbara Regenspan, 2014-11-27 In a time when it seems like we've run into the limits on what Marx, Dewey, and Freud might hold for liberatory critique, this peculiarly uplifting book seeks to identify some promising thinking and teaching practices, especially for work in our contemporary corporate university of excellence. With auto-ethnography as a baseline for reflection on her personal teaching life in this troubling political era, as well as an insistence that all students are future teachers, whether they seek formal work in classrooms or not, Barbara Regenspan selects insights descending from her horribly imperfect trinity: Marx, Dewey, and Freud, to reevaluate what it means to have obligations to unknowable others in our complex and global reality. Drawing on an interdisciplinary cast of contemporary social theorists such as Avery Gordon, Deborah Britzman, Maxine Greene, Bill Readings, and Alain Badiou, this book traces hauntagogical thinking and related classroom practice, hauntagogy, pedagogy aimed to create wide awakeness through the unearthing of acts of historical and interpersonal hauntings. Balanced between critique and hope, Regenspan offers the field of Educational Studies, including teacher education, but also higher education, more generally, a way of conceiving of the classroom as a place where contradictions in discourses are mined with and for our students who will be future teachers in the formal or informal sense. Here is a view of what historical materialism might hold for the relationship between democracy and education, and what that relationship means for new, wild conceptions of self, politics, and spirituality. Barbara Regenspan combines the personal, the political, and the educational in creative ways in this
