Abstract

Background: Thyroidectomy is known to cause changes in voice. However limited studies have been done examining the effects of voice therapy on persons with thyroidectomy.

Aim: The present study is aimed at garnering evidence for the efficacy of voice therapy post near total thyroidectomy.

Method: The participant was a thirty-six-year-old female client diagnosed as having Severe Hoarse Voice with right vocal cord paralysis secondary to near total thyroidectomy (resulting nodular goitre). A detailed voice evaluation was done followed by structured therapy techniques.

Results: The results revealed positive changes in the vocal behaviour of the subject pre- and post-therapy as revealed by qualitative and quantitative measures.

Conclusion: These findings support that voice therapy is crucial as a major treatment options to improve voice quality for individuals post thyroidectomy. Further research with more evidences in a greater number of clients is warranted in this area.

Introduction

Thyroidectomy is a surgical procedure which results in total or partial removal of the thyroid gland [1]. Thyroid gland produces thyroid hormone which has several physiological effects and is essential for normal growth, functioning, and development of various tissues as well as larynx [2]. As a result, thyroid gland diseases affect almost all structures engaged in voice production, such as larynx, trachea, laryngeal muscles and nerves [3]. Voice changes after thyroidectomy are often linked with recurrent (inferior) laryngeal nerve impairment and rarely with superior laryngeal nerve impairment [4]. Laryngeal nerve impairment can cause different vocal and laryngeal symptoms during thyroidectomy [5], such as: changes in voice, respiration, swallowing and coughing which is usually ineffective and silent [6]. Voice changes can vary from mild to severe aberrations or from dysphonia to aphonia. Studies have also reported that thyroidectomy affects the steadiness of the vocal tract which may lead to changes in voice [7]. The characteristics of vocal changes in patients who have undergone thyroidectomy mainly include symptoms such as vocal fatigue, reduced vocal range, reduced speaking fundamental frequency, hoarseness, and reduced vocal strength [8]. Voice disorders after thyroidectomy can significantly affect the quality of life [9]. No matter how much individuals depend on their voice in their profession, quality of life is disrupted if they use their voice in everyday communication. In that way, dysphonia affects not only the professional, but also the social aspect of life. The above review indicates that objective and subjective evaluation of the patient's vocal state is required in patients who undergo thyroidectomy procedures. Since most of the studies deal with the diagnosis aspects, limited studies are done examining the effect of voice therapy on persons with thyroidectomy in the Indian context. The present study is aimed at garnering evidence for the efficacy of voice therapy post near total thyroidectomy.

The present study has the following objectives:

- To investigate and compare the qualitative measures using qualitative protocol, Consensus Auditory Perceptual Evaluation of Voice (CAPE-V) before and after 15 sessions of voice therapy.
