Between Worlds Linda Chisholm, 2017-11-30 How the story of how missionary schools adopted the Bantu education reforms gives insight into the ongoing legacy of the apartheid in the South African educational system The transition from apartheid to the post apartheid era has highlighted questions about the past and the persistence of its influence in present day South Africa This is particularly so in education where the past continues to play a decisive role in relation to inequality Between Worlds German Missionaries and the Transition from Mission to Bantu Education in South Africa scrutinises the experience of a hitherto unexplored German mission society probing the complexities and paradoxes of social change in education It raises challenging questions about the nature of mission education legacies Linda Chisholm shows that the transition from mission to Bantu Education was far from seamless Instead past and present interpenetrated one another with resistance and compliance cohabiting in a complex new social order At the same time as missionaries complied with the new Bantu Education dictates they sought to secure a role for themselves in the face of demands of local communities for secular state controlled education When the latter was implemented in a perverted form from the mid 1950s one of its tools was textbooks in local languages developed by mission societies as part of a transnational project with African participation Introduced under the guise of expunging European control Bantu Education merely served to reinforce such control The response of local communities was an attempt to domesticate and master the foreign body of the mission so as to create access to a larger world This book focuses on the ensuing struggle fought on many fronts including medium of instruction and textbook content with concomitant sub texts relating to gender roles and sexuality South Africa's educational history is to this day informed by networks of people and ideas crossing geographic and racial boundaries The colonial legacy has inevitably involved cultural mixing and hybridisation with paradoxically parallel pleas for purity Chisholm explores how these ideas found expression in colliding and coalescing worlds one African the other European caught between mission and apartheid education

Improving Learning in Secondary Schools Kenneth Ndifor Tangie, 2015-09-10 Improving Learning in Secondary Schools brings together in a succinct comprehensive and thought provoking manner several dimensions of classroom assessment feedback in one volume It is based on the principle that students need feedback on their work and conduct at school in order to be able to correct misconceptions and omissions that can render them incapable of making progress and learning in a given subject The book reports on a doctoral study that examined teachers feedback practice and its relation to student learning in secondary schools It presents a critical fine grained classification and analysis of positive neutral and negative feedback categories in teacher talk and writing which could generate a globally applicable typology and theory of classroom feedback For some time now formative assessment generated feedback has been widely recommended for classrooms thanks mainly to compelling research based evidence showing the relative merits of formative assessment types over more traditional summative assessment practices In this book it is suggested that the time has come to depart from such arguments because the mere presence of feedback in teacher talk and writing be it formative or summative is not enough to support learning Feedback like formal and informal instruction and assessment is not mediated in vacuo it is a social process taking place in a social setting conducted by on and for social actors One must also consider the context especially the linguistic and socio cultural environment in which assessment feedback and learning occur but which also acts as a barrier and facilitator to successful feedback provision and uptake This argument should constitute a starting point for reflection debate and research into the effectiveness for learning of classroom assessment feedback Therefore whilst complementing previous work on this subject this book makes significant additions to a very important aspect of school life Primary and secondary school teachers university students academics and researchers as well as educationists and policy makers in the domain of educational assessment will find in it an inseparable companion and resource tool      Financial Mail ,2005-08      The Athenaeum ,1914      The Encyclopædia Britannica James Louis Garvin,1926      Bookseller and the Stationery Trades' Journal ,1879      English-Medium Instruction and Translanguaging BethAnne Paulsrud,Zhongfeng Tian,Jeanette Toth,2021-01-20

 This book offers a critical exploration of definitions methodologies and ideologies of English medium instruction EMI contributing to new understandings of translanguaging as theory and pedagogy across diverse contexts It brings together a number of conceptual and empirical studies on translanguaging in EMI at different educational levels in a variety of countries with different approaches to translanguaging different named languages and different policies These studies include several underrepresented contexts across the globe providing a broad view of how translanguaging in EMI is understood in these educational settings Furthermore this book addresses the complexities of translanguaging through a discussion of the affordances and constraints associated with the use of multiple linguistic resources in the EMI classroom
