The Rhodesian Air Force in Zimbabwe's War of Liberation, 1966-1980 Darlington Mutanda, 2016-11-10 This book evaluates the development of the Rhodesian Air Force during the Second Chimurenga or Bush War 1966-1980. Airpower in irregular conflict is effective at the tactical level because guerrilla warfare is not a purely military conflict. The Rhodesian Air Force was deployed in a war-winning versus a supporting role as a result of the shortage of manpower to deal with insurgency and almost all units of the Rhodesian Security Forces depended on its tactical effectiveness. Technical challenges faced by the Air Force combined with the rate of guerrilla infiltration and the misuse of airpower to bomb guerrilla bases in neighboring countries largely negated the success of airpower.

Mugabeism after Mugabe? Thomas Duri, Ngonidzashe Marongwe, 2019-10-22 Arguably one of the long-awaited political handovers of power globally happened in November 2017 in Zimbabwe when the former and now late 37-year-long serving and divisive President Robert Gabriel Mugabe was forced out of power by a combination of forces that were spearheaded by the military's Operation Restore Legacy. Mugabe's departure ushered in President Emmerson Dambudzo Mnangagwa's reign. This transition has variously been characterised as marking the inauguration of the Second Republic or New Dispensation or as heralding a new Zimbabwe that is Open for Business. From the moment of the investiture of President Mnangagwa's government, anticipations of seismic changes to the order of doing business by both the incoming government and the larger Zimbabwean society in general were extremely high. There was an expectation that international cooperation with global partners, especially in the West, would be restored alongside the reinvigoration of a near-comatose domestic economy. But did this ever happen? This volume interrogates the impact of the introduction of the Mnangagwa administration from November 2017. The book seeks to broadly dissect and troubleshoot issues of continuity and change from Mugabe's reign into Mnangagwa's Second Republic. In doing so, the book attempts to respond to the grand question: To what extent has Mugabeism, that was the hallmark of Mugabe's reign, continued or discontinued into the Second Republic? The volume, which comes as a sequel to The End of an Era: Robert Mugabe and a Conflicting Legacy, is sure to generate interest and responses from students and academics in the fields of History, International Studies, Political Science, Sociology, and Social Anthropology, as well as from practitioners in the human rights, transitional justice, conflict resolution, security studies, and diplomatic fields.

Civil Society and Peacebuilding in Sub-Saharan Africa in the Anthropocene Jean Chrysostome K. Kiyala, Geoff Thomas Harris, 2022-04-22 This book examines civil society's peacebuilding role in sub-Saharan Africa in the context of climate change and the pursuit of environmental peace and justice in the Anthropocene. Five main research themes emerge from its 20 chapters: The roles of environmental peacemaking, environmental justice, ecological education, and eco-ethics in helping to mitigate the impacts of climate change; Peacebuilding by CSOs after violent conflicts with particular reference to accountability, reconciliation, and healing; CSO involvement in democratic processes and political transition after violent conflicts; Relationships between local CSOs and their foreign funders and the interactions between CSOs and the African Union's peace and security architecture. The particular role of faith-based CSOs. The book underlines the centrality of dialogue to African peacebuilding and the indigenous wisdom and philosophies on which it is based. Such wisdom will be a key resource in confronting the existential challenges of the Anthropocene. The book will be a significant resource for researchers, academics, and policymakers concerned with the challenge of climate change, its interactions with armed conflict, and the peacebuilding role of CSOs. This pathbreaking book shows why peacebuilding analysis and efforts need to be urgently re-oriented towards the existential challenges of environmental peace and justice. It explains the emerging conceptual frameworks which are needed for this new role. It explains the critical role that CSOs, local and international, will play in implementing this new peacebuilding approach with particular reference to sub-Saharan Africa.

Mining Africa Warikandwa, Tapiwa V., 2017-05-01. This book is a pacesetter in matters of mining and the environment in Africa from multidisciplinary and spatio-temporal perspectives. The book approaches mining from the perspectives of law, politics, archaeology, anthropology, African studies, geography, human ecology, sociology, history, economics, and development. It interrogates mining and environment from the perspectives of customary law as well as from the perspectives of Euro-modern laws. In this sense, the book straddles precolonial, colonial, and postcolonial mining and environmental perspectives. In all this, it maintains a Pan-Africanist perspective that also speaks to contemporary debates on African Renaissance and to the unity of Africa. From scrutinising the lived realities of African miners who are often insensitively and unjustly addressed as illegal miners, the book also interrogates transnational mining corporations, matters of corporate social responsibility, as well as matters of tax evasions by transnational corporations whose commitment to accountability to African governments is questioned. With both theoretical chapters and chapter-based empirical studies on mining and the environment across the African continent, the book provides a much-needed holistic one-stop shop for scholars, activists, researchers, and policy makers who need a comprehensive treatise on African mining and the environment. The book comes at the right time when matters of African mining and environment are increasingly coming to the fore in the light of discourses about the new 21st-century scramble for African resources in which big transnational corporations and nations are jostling to suck Africa dry in their race to control planetary resources. It is a book that speaks to contemporary broader issues of de-coloniality and transformation of African minds and African environmental resources.

Black and White Agnieszka Piotrowska, 2016-10-04. In Black and White, Agnieszka Piotrowska presents a unique insight into the contemporary arts scene in Zimbabwe, an area that has received very limited coverage in research and the media. The book combines theory with literature, film, politics, and culture and takes a psychosocial and psychoanalytic perspective to achieve a truly interdisciplinary analysis. Piotrowska focuses in particular on the Harare International Festival of the Arts (HIFA) as well as the cinema featuring the work of Rumbi Katedza and Joe Njagu. Her personal experience of time spent in Harare working in collaborative relationships with Zimbabwean artists and filmmakers informs the book throughout. It features examples of their creative work on the ground and examines the impact it has had on the community and the local media Piotrowska uses her experiences to analyse concepts of trauma and post colonialism in Zimbabwe and interrogates her position as a stranger there questioning patriarchal notions of belonging and authority Black and White also presents a different perspective on convergences in the work of Doris Lessing and iconic Zimbabwean writer Dambudzo Marechera and how it might be relevant to contemporary race relations Black and White will be intriguing reading for psychoanalysts psychotherapists and psychotherapeutically engaged scholars film makers academics and students of post colonial studies film studies cultural studies psychosocial studies and applied philosophy
