Social Constructions of Water Quality in South Africa Suvania Naidoo, 2022-05-04 This book details how the water quality of the Blesbokspruit River in Gauteng South Africa was socially constructed by stakeholders and key individuals in the context of acid mine drainage AMD and its treatment Social constructionism is used as the framing for this research to explain how water is intrinsically social Findings presented here show that stakeholders are aware that the changes in the physicality of the Blesbokspruit resulted from human interventions and varied uses of the water over the years Such knowledge among factors such as the historical context of mining current coal mining flows and volumes of water technology used and processes followed information and communication and vested interests influence social constructions of the water quality What counts as the truth about water varies depending on the individual's perspective their purpose and their individual interests Further how one defines water quality influences what treatment processes are preferred in order to improve water quality The book explains why for example a treatment process meant to improve water quality gained a bad reputation by the public because of the South African government's silo approach The book explains how these social constructions are entrenched in power relations between stakeholders regarding AMD treatment and illustrates how power was used to influence decisions to improve the water quality of the Blesbokspruit The case presented in this book offers insights and recommendations for policymakers working in water governance including means to influence social constructions of water quality and ways to clarify roles and responsibilities in pursuit of improved cooperative government

Corrupted Jonathan D Jansen, 2023-02 Through investigatory reports and interviews Jonathan Jansen reveals the structural conditions for chronic dysfunction in a sample of South African universities He reveals the political economy at work and the intense competition for resources on campuses He also provides interventions for these fragile institutions Why do some universities seem to be in a constant state of turmoil and dysfunction Jonathan Jansen explores the root causes of chronic instability in a sample of South African universities Through scrutiny of investigatory reports and interviews with more than 100 university managers and government officials Jansen finds that at the heart of the dysfunction in universities is an intense and sometimes deadly competition for resources especially on campuses located in impoverished communities It is not the lack of institutional resources but their concentration in a university that draws a mix of corrupt actors from local politicians and taxi operators to members of council and management into a never ending run on the material such as money for infrastructure and symbolic namely graduation certificates for sale assets of these institutions Jansen argues that the problem won't be solved through investments in capacity building alone because the combination of institutional capacity and institutional integrity contributes to serial instability in universities Jansen makes an important intervention to understanding the root causes and offers interventions to produce stabilities such as the depoliticisation of university councils and appointing academics of integrity and capacity in the management and leadership of these fragile institutions This groundbreaking and long overdue study will offer a promising way forward for universities to better serve their communities and the country more broadly

Deanship in the Global South Oliver J.J. Seale,2021-02-08 The university today is a postmodern neo liberal competitive boundary less knowledge conglomerate a far cry from its historical traditional classical and collegial roots There is a body of literature on deanship that points to its evolving nature in the contemporary academe characterised by complexity and change. Balancing academic demands simultaneously with the requirements for effective performance leadership and management lies at the heart of this very challenging bridging role nowadays. Deans are generally former academics emerging from a traditional collegial space and often catapulted into the relatively unknown domain of executive management with its related problems. Deans nowadays are required to be more than collegial intellectual leaders. They are also meant to be fiscal and human resource experts, fundraisers, politicians and diplomats. Deanship in the Global South: Bridging Troubled Waters is about the deans' lived reality as they try to balance the demands of both the academe from which they emerge and the administration to whom they now need to account. Their lack of preparation and inadequate support points to the need for a more strategic integrated approach to leadership development within their critical bridging roles between the academe and administration.

Knowledge for Justice Halvorsen, Tor, Ibsen, Hilde, 2017-11-28. With the adoption of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and the Paris Agreement, the purpose of development is being redefined in both social and environmental terms. Despite pushback from conservative forces, change is accelerating in many sectors. To drive this transformation in ways that bring about social, environmental and economic justice at a local, national, regional and global levels, new knowledge and strong cross-regional networks capable of foregrounding different realities, needs and agendas will be essential. In fact, the power of knowledge matters today in ways that humanity has probably never experienced before, placing an emphasis on the roles of research academics and universities. In this collection, an international, diverse collection of scholars from the southern African and Nordic regions critically review the SDGs in relation to their own areas of expertise while placing the process of knowledge production in the spotlight. In Part I, the contributors provide a sober assessment of the obstacles that neo-liberal hegemony presents to substantive transformation. In Part Two, lessons learned from North-South research collaborations and academic exchanges are assessed in terms of their potential to offer real alternatives. In Part III, a set of case studies supply clear and nuanced analyses of the scale of the challenges faced in ensuring that no one is left behind. This accessible and absorbing collection will be of interest to anyone interested in North-South research networks and in the contemporary debates on the role of knowledge production. The Southern African Nordic Centre (SANORD) is a network of higher education institutions that stretches across Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Botswana, Namibia, Malawi, South Africa, Zambia and Zimbabwe. Universities in the southern African and Nordic regions that are not yet members are encouraged to join.
