Parliament. House of Commons,1975 Economy of Identities in Traditional Chinese Theatre Ágota Révész,2024-11-18 The book is intended to become a useful reference for theatre people who need China knowledge Its central questions are how is traditional Chinese theatre Chinese opera i e xiqu embedded in contemporary Chinese society What identities are created through theatre And most importantly how are these identities related to one another to form a complex economy of identities An insight is offered into the traditional Chinese theatre system composed of over three hundred theatre types vying for recognition in a complex relational network Understanding how this relationality works might also shed light on the functioning of other fields in the current socio cultural complex of China Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications ,1989 The Color of Creatorship Anjali Vats,2020-09-29 The Color of Creatorship examines how copyright trademark and patent discourses work together to form American ideals around race citizenship and property Working through key moments in intellectual property history since 1790 Anjali Vats reveals that even as they have seemingly evolved American understandings of who is a creator and who is an infringer have remained remarkably racially conservative and consistent over time Vats examines archival legal political and popular culture texts to demonstrate how intellectual properties developed alongside definitions of the good citizen bad citizen and intellectual labor in racialized ways Offering readers a theory of critical race intellectual property Vats historicizes the figure of the citizen creator the white male maker who was incorporated into the national ideology as a key contributor to the nation s moral and economic development She also traces the emergence of racial panics around infringement arguing that the post racial creator exists in opposition to the figure of the hyper racial infringer a national enemy who is the opposite of the hardworking innovative American creator The Color of Creatorship contributes to a rapidly developing conversation in critical race intellectual property Vats argues that once anti racist activists grapple with the underlying racial structures of intellectual property law they can better advocate for strategies that resist the underlying drivers of racially disparate copyright patent and trademark policy Monthly Catalogue, United States Public Documents ,1989 Threatening Dystopias Kasia Paprocki,2021-12-15 Bangladesh is currently ranked as one of the most climate vulnerable countries in the world In Threatening Dystopias Kasia Paprocki investigates the politics of climate change adaptation throughout the South Asian nation Drawing on ethnographic and archival fieldwork she engages with developers policy makers scientists farmers and rural migrants to show how Bangladeshi and global elites ignore the history of landscape transformation and its attendant political conflicts Paprocki looks at how groups craft economic narratives and strategies that redistribute power and resources away from peasant communities Although these groups claim that increased production of export commodities will reframe the threat of climate change into an opportunity for economic development and growth the reality is not so simple For the country s rural poor these promises ring hollow As development dispossesses the poor from agrarian livelihoods outmigration from peasant communities leads to precarious existences in urban centers And a vision of development in which urbanization and export led growth are both desirable and inevitable is not one the land and its people can sustain Threatening Dystopias shows how a powerful rural movement although hampered by an all consuming climate emergency is seeking climate justice in Bangladesh

Homes in Crisis Capitalism Marnie Holborow, 2024-02-22

Homes in Crisis Capitalism explores the core social reproduction role that individual households fulfil in our societies and the class and racial effects of this on gender inequality and discrimination Women now make up nearly half of the paid workforce globally yet prevailing neoliberal social policy continues to rule out adequate state provision of child and elder care choosing instead to rely on marketized services to fill the gap It is mainly women who carry out this little valued care work either in a non paid or paid capacity and gender inequality is entrenched across society Official gender parity policies often expressed in terms of equality of opportunity have done little to ease the double burden of domestic and care work for the vast majority of women Competitive labour markets discriminate against those expected to be the primary caregivers of children the sick and disabled and older people In addition the presence across many societies of an acute housing crisis and soaring inflation have put added pressures on home life A social reproduction crisis has developed and it is working class women and women of colour who are paying the price Holborow analyses homes in crisis capitalism through a Marxist lens of capitalist social reproduction This book charts the interwoven social and political effects and outcomes of work and care provided in the home and makes the case for a radical break with capitalism to give social reproduction the material resources and social recognition it deserves
