Contemporary Customary Land Issues in Africa J. Oloka-Onyango, Bridget Bwalya Umar, 2018-07-26 This book examines current trends in customary land issues in Africa focusing on the practice of converting customary land into leasehold tenure particularly in Zambia Since the enactment of the 1995 Lands Act No 29 in Zambia conversion of customary land has become a controversial policy raising questions about the future of customary land and rural communities and the role of traditional authorities in a changing environment Alienating customary land into leasehold tenure has serious implications for local and national politics and gender dynamics Analysis of these trends suggests that the policy of creating land markets on customary land is subjecting customary systems to the forces of change However governments that have adopted this policy have not by and large adopted measures to respond to these challenges Although customary tenure is widely believed to be resilient it is not clear how the customary system will navigate the current winds of change Chapters in this book draw from the Land Use and Rural Livelihoods in Africa Project LURLAP a collaborative research project undertaken by staff and students at the University of Cape Town and the University of Zambia

MacLean,1986 Tobacco Cultivation Manual Carl Juan,2024-01-14 For the purpose of making cigarettes cigars pipe tobacco and smokeless tobacco including snuff and chewing tobacco tobacco plants are cultivated in order to harvest their leaves which are subsequently processed and used in the manufacture of these tobacco products Tobacco has been cultivated and smoked for hundreds of years because of the stimulating and habit forming properties of nicotine There are normally multiple steps involved in the cultivation of tobacco 1 In the first step the soil is readied for the planting of tobacco seeds For best results with seed germination and plant development this seedbed is typically located in a greenhouse or other protected environment 2 Seeds are sown in a nursery and when the seedlings are big enough to transplant they are moved to a field This is a typical well prepared field with ideal soil conditions and fertilizer levels for growing tobacco 3 Tobacco plants need continuing care including watering fertilizing and insect control after they have been transplanted To improve the quantity and quality of the leaves the plants should be clipped and topped 4 Depending on the variety of tobacco being grown and the final product the leaves are harvested at different stages of maturity Depending on the needs the entire plant or only a few selected leaves may be harvested 5 Tobacco leaves are dried and cured after harvest to bring forth their natural flavors and aromas Depending on the type of tobacco the process may require air curing flue curing or fire curing 6 Tobacco products start with cured leaves that are sorted graded and processed Tobacco leaves can be processed in many ways such as by shredding or cutting them for use in cigarettes and cigars or left whole for use in whole leaf chewing tobacco Many countries including the United States China Brazil and India rely heavily on the agricultural profits from tobacco cultivation Tobacco use is linked to a number of negative health outcomes including an increased risk of cancer and cardiovascular disease and therefore tobacco cultivation has a bad reputation Consequently several nations have tightened their regulations on tobacco production and the tobacco business as a whole
