Chapter 5 – Prevention of pollution arising from an oil pollution incident

Regulation 17

Shipboard oil pollution emergency plan

1 Every oil tanker of 150 gross tonnage and above and every ship other than an oil tanker of 400 gross tonnage and above shall carry on board a shipboard oil pollution emergency plan approved by the Administration.

SEE INTERPRETATION-45

2 Such a plan shall be prepared based on guidelines¹ developed by the Organization and written in the working language of the master and officers. The plan shall consist at least of:

- 1 the procedure to be followed by the master or other persons having charge of the ship to report an oil pollution incident, as required in article 8 and Protocol 1 of the present Convention, based on the guidelines developed by the Organization²;
- 2 the list of authorities or persons to be contacted in the event of an oil pollution incident;
- 3 a detailed description of the action to be taken immediately by persons on board to reduce or control the discharge of oil following the incident; and
- 4 the procedures and point of contact on the ship for coordinating shipboard action with national and local authorities in combating the pollution.

3 In the case of ships to which regulation 17 of Annex II of the present Convention also applies, such a plan may be combined with the shipboard marine pollution emergency plan for noxious liquid substances required under regulation 17 of Annex I of the present Convention. In this case, the title of such a plan shall be "Shipboard marine pollution emergency plan".

4 All oil tankers of 5,000 tonnes deadweight or more shall have prompt access to computerized structural damage stability and residual structural strength calculation programs.

Chapter 7 – Prevention of pollution arising from an incident involving noxious liquid substances

Regulation 17

Shipboard marine pollution emergency plan for noxious liquid substances

1 Every ship of 150 gross tonnage and above certified to carry noxious liquid substances in bulk shall carry on board a shipboard marine pollution emergency plan for noxious liquid substances approved by the Administration.

2 Such a plan shall be based on the Guidelines¹ developed by the Organization and written in a working language or languages understood by the master and officers. The plan shall consist at least of:

- 1 the procedure to be followed by the master or other persons having charge of the ship to report a noxious liquid substances pollution incident, as required in article 8 and Protocol 1 of the present Convention, based on the Guidelines developed by the Organization²;
- 2 the list of authorities or persons to be contacted in the event of a noxious liquid substances pollution incident;
- 3 a detailed description of the action to be taken immediately by persons on board to reduce or control the discharge of noxious liquid substances following the incident; and
- 4 the procedures and point of contact on the ship for coordinating shipboard action with national and local authorities in combating the pollution.

3 In the case of ships to which regulation 17 of Annex I of the Convention also applies, such a plan may be combined with the shipboard oil pollution emergency plan required under regulation 17 of Annex I of the Convention. In this case, the title of such a plan shall be "Shipboard marine pollution emergency plan".

Reeds 21st Century Ship Management
 John W. Dickie, 2014-04-17. The first modern title to cover the varied and complex world of ship management in the 21st century. Ship management has constantly had to evolve to take into account the advancements in technology as well as the demands of the shipping industry. Having internet access and email on board ship has meant that the ship manager has to possess certain sets of skills to function effectively in the post including computer literacy. The emergence of large multi-national ship management companies has also changed how business is conducted and this in turn means that the ship manager and tiers of management within the organization have had to evolve to cope with the demands of working with a multi-national workforce. Furthermore, since the mid 1980s there has been an ever-expanding raft of legislation that is more restrictive for companies to meet and a shrinking of profit margins has seen a shift in how companies are required to operate to survive. This book addresses the demands of 21st century ship management with the focus of the book as much on the people who manage ships as on the theory and practice of ship management.
