European B2C E-Commerce in the Banking Sector Caroline Möckel, 2010-04-28 Inhaltsangabe Introduction Based on the findings of the correlation analysis described in chapter 7 1 factors of influence and variables statistically not related to financial B2C e commerce can now be distinguished While the focus of this part of the analysis lies on factors showing significant correlation coefficients in relation to the research topic this does not mean that the non correlated factors are not of importance or somewhat connected The statistical measurements may not be suitable for this type of analysis survey results may be misleading or the situation will have changed in the last two years after the investigation On the other hand the observed correlations do not necessarily equal a causal relationship and the high complex matter can not be explained by single variables as influence factors The conducted correlation analysis only serves as an indicator for potential influence factors or accelerators and has to be carefully evaluated Keeping these considerations in mind the statistical analysis within the scope of this masters dissertation will support the following conclusions and interpretations First of all computer usage and skills as well as internet usage and skills need to be on a high level in a country to facilitate financial B2C e commerce Residents of countries with higher levels for the subject of examination will probably already have gained adequate skills as indicated by a medium strong negative relation to computer courses taken in the last three months and other online activities such as online information search and online banking positively correlated While online banking is partially included in the variable e_comm representing financial B2C e commerce through customer s usage of online financial services this particular result may not be totally conclusive However it seems logical that consumers with good computer and internet skills also spending a lot of time with advanced activities on the internet may also engage in financial B2C e commerce This assumption narrows down the target group and excludes a certain clientele from online product offers of financial institutions banks will need to adapt their web portals accordingly set up initiatives improving computer and web skills of their consumers and meet their consumers on the internet e g with advertising while they are using search engines Practical evidence supporting these interpretations can be found in several examples of Focusing Solutions for Data Mining Thomas Reinartz,2008-10-10 In the first part this book analyzes the knowledge discovery process in order to understand the relations between knowledge discovery steps and focusing The part devoted to the development of focusing solutions opens with an analysis of the state of the art then introduces the relevant techniques and finally culminates in implementing a unified approach as a generic sampling algorithm which is then integrated into a commercial data mining system The last part evaluates specific focusing solutions in various application domains The book provides various appendices enhancing easy accessibility The book presents a comprehensive introduction to focusing in the context of data mining and knowledge discovery It is written for researchers and advanced students as well as for professionals applying data mining and knowledge discovery techniques in practice Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,2002 Encyclopedia of Business Information Sources Linda D.
