Biochemistry J. Stenesh, 2013-06-29 This text is intended for an introductory course in bio metabolism. It concludes with photosynthesis. The last section of chemistry. While such a course draws students from various parts of the book. Part IV TRANSFER OF GENETIC INFORMATION. Our curricula all students are presumed to have had at least one semester of general chemistry and one semester of organic chemistry. This book explores the expression of genetic information. Replication, transcription and translation are covered in this book. My main goal in writing this book was to provide students with a basic body of biochemical knowledge and a thorough exposition of fundamental biochemical concepts. Four appendixes cover acid base calculations, principles of biochemistry including full definitions of key terms. My aim has been to present this material in a reasonably balanced way, neither deluging central topics with excessive detail nor slighting secondary topics by extreme brevity. Readings and a comprehensive study section that consists of three types of review questions and a large number of problems. Every author of an introductory text struggles with the problem of what to include in the coverage. My guide problems.
