Statistical Learning from a Regression Perspective Richard A. Berk, 2008-06-14 Statistical Learning from a Regression Perspective considers statistical learning applications when interest centers on the conditional distribution of the response variable given a set of predictors and when it is important to characterize how the predictors are related to the response As a first approximation this is can be seen as an extension of nonparametric regression Among the statistical learning procedures examined are bagging random forests boosting and support vector machines Response variables may be quantitative or categorical Real applications are emphasized especially those with practical implications One important theme is the need to explicitly take into account asymmetric costs in the fitting process For example in some situations false positives may be far less costly than false negatives Another important theme is to not automatically cede modeling decisions to a fitting algorithm In many settings subject matter knowledge should trump formal fitting criteria Yet another important theme is to appreciate the limitation of one's data and not apply statistical learning procedures that require more than the data can provide The material is written for graduate students in the social and life sciences and for researchers who want to apply statistical learning procedures to scientific and policy problems. Intuitive explanations and visual representations are prominent. All of the analyses included are done in R.

Automotive Recycling, Plastics, and Sustainability David Schönmayr, 2017-05-31. This book provides transdisciplinary analyses of the automotive plastics production and recycling system including prognoses, scenarios, and solutions for corporate sustainability management. A book on plastics not written by a plastics guy, but by a sustainability guy. Plastics schizophrenia and the automotive abyss. The industry is facing a severe challenge. It is the inevitable and promising change towards a sustainable economy. However, the automotive industry is primarily concerned with the CO2 emissions from cars when driving, while the rise of lightweight plastics, electric drive, and heavy batteries make the production and end-of-life phase ever more important. Therefore, the currently increasing use of non-sustainable virgin plastics in cars has to be tackled. The plastics and the automotive industry now have a chance, and this chance is the Recycling Renaissance. This book offers a holistic and transdisciplinary overview on sustainability and automotive plastics from all angles, including economy, ecology, technology, and politics, with a focus on Europe. Concise analyses, prognoses, tools, and a roadmap with solutions for companies developed together with international experts from industry and academia. Strong scientific basis and independent research, including a Europe-wide survey, expert interviews, and workshops. More than 80 illustrations and 15 tables, including a SCOT analysis. Executive summaries after each chapter for fast reading. The uniqueness of this book lies within the different point of view on this topic from a critical, outstanding scientist.
