visual support for learners Supported by Essential Enrolled Nursing Skills Workbook 2nd edition An eBook included in all print purchases New to this edition Chapter 5 Nursing informatics and technology in healthcare focuses on competency in nursing informatics for beginning level practice aligned to the National Nursing and Midwifery Digital Capability Framework 2020 An increased focus on cultural competence and safety Supported by Elsevier Adaptive Quizzing Taberner's Nursing Care 8th edition Index of NLM Serial Titles National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1981 A keyword listing of serial titles currently received by the National Library of Medicine Decolonising Indigenous Child Welfare Terri Libesman, 2013-12-04 During the past decade a remarkable transference of responsibility to Indigenous children's organisation has taken place in many parts of Australia Canada the USA and New Zealand It has been influenced by Indigenous peoples human rights advocacy at national and international levels by claims to self determination and by the globalisation of Indigenous children's organisations Thus far this reform has taken place with little attention from academic and non Indigenous communities now Decolonising Indigenous Child Welfare Comparative Perspectives considers these developments and evaluating law reform with respect to Indigenous child welfare asks whether the pluralisation of responses to their welfare and well being within a cross cultural post colonial context can improve the lives of Indigenous children The legislative frameworks for the delivery of child welfare services to Indigenous children are assessed in terms of the degree of self determination which they afford Indigenous communities The book draws upon interdisciplinary research and the author's experience collaborating with the peak Australian Indigenous children's organisation for over a decade to provide a thorough examination of this international issue Dr Terri Libesman is a Senior Lecturer in the Law Faculty at the University of Technology Sydney She has collaborated researched and published for over a decade with the peak Australian Indigenous children's organisation Inside the Child's Head Jennifer Laurence, 2019-02-11 Inside the Child's Head traces the emergence of biomedical diagnoses of behavior disorders in children It provides a new critical counterpoint to the kind of myth or reality debate on childhood disorders Social policy debates about ADHD for example inasmuch as they are conducted around essentialist dichotomies of the biological and the social lead into a philosophical cul de sac The authors suggest that understanding and acting upon childhood disorders lie not so much in elucidating grand philosophical and etiological questions or in pinning our hopes on new scientific discovery of what is going on in the child's head as in the historical possibilities of the present day make up of this inside The book provides an account of the historical contexts in which the biomedical and social bases for disorders have been formulated showing that both sets of understandings draw on common phenomena and use similar instruments to reach their conclusions Outlined are a series of formative locations whence particular and localized governmental problems to do with managing discrete populations rub up against fairly inauspicious technical solutions focused on pivotal events in specific institutional and social spaces These include changes to the spatial organization of classroom changes in the science of policing social space the war time development and extended clinical deployment of the electroencephalograph the hand in hand emergence of computer and cognitive science and the effects of the computer itself on the way we conceptualize brain space The book treats the appearance of the child with behavior disorder as an achievement of various agencies of science and government rather than an initial encounter for discovering scientific truths Children in the Anthropocene Karen Malone, 2017-11-05 This book elaborates the need in a rapidly urbanizing world for recognition of the ecological communities we inhabit in cities and for the development of an ethics for all entities human and non human in this context Children and their entangled relations with the human and more than human world are located centrally to the research on cities in Bolivia and Kazakhstan which investigates the future challenges of the Anthropocene The author explores these relations by employing techniques of intra action diffraction and onto ethnography in order to reveal the complexities of children's lives These tools are supported by a theoretical framing that draws on posthumanist and new materialist literature Through rich and complex stories of space time mattering in cities this work connects children's voices with a host of others to address the question of what it means to be a child in the Anthropocene History's Children Anna Clark, 2008 What is it about Australian history Students dismiss the subject for being boring while politicians and concerned parents fret over their lack of historical knowledge The classroom has become the battleground of the history wars yet no one ever asks the children what they think about Australian history and what they like or don't about learning it Through interviews with around 250 Australian students from a wide variety of schools Anna Clark asks how teachers and students teach and learn Australian history This book is a lively and often surprising read that throws all kinds of challenges to students teachers and indeed politicians
