The China War:

The China War & the Third Temple Jr. Irvin Baxter, 2001-09-20 What will the world be like the day after one third of the earth's population is snuffed out in a horrible holocaust An unprecedented cry for a system of global government that can enforce peace and security will be heard around the world This time of global emergency will be the perfect backdrop for the rise of a world leader with answers

China at War Hans van de Ven, 2017-08-24 China's War of Resistance against Japan as WWII is known in China was never about the defeat of Japan alone China was also at war with itself Between 1937 and 1949 a vicious revolutionary war between Nationalists and Communists divided by radically different views about China's future ravaged the country killing millions and laying waste to cities and the countryside The outcomes of these wars have shaped the country and the world since China at War focuses on this period examining the complex truth behind the propaganda of both East and West Cambridge professor Hans van de Ven shows how the results of the fighting ended European imperialism in East Asia restored China to its traditional position of regional centrality and gave the USA a decisive role in East Asian politics In the process he argues it also triggered profound changes in warfare as important as the development of atomic weapons and gave the countryside a new social political and military significance Through fascinating personal accounts and extensive scholarship China at War casts new light on this crucial period of history and harnesses contemporary art culture and ideology to illuminate world changing events

Papers Relating to the China War, 1856-58, 1857

The Second China War D. Bonner-Smith, A. C. Dewar, 2019-04-24 The causes of the Second China War were complex one factor went back deep into China's past when the country was the predominant power in the Far East and had developed a civilisation that culturally and technically was far ahead of that of Europe This gave them a superiority complex which they retained when the country turned in on itself and cut itself off from the rest of the world at the end of its golden age which occurred around the end of the 15th century They were still maintaining this attitude at the time of the events with which this volume is concerned regarding the Europeans as barbarians and an inferior race The other major factor was the European predominantly British need to find markets for the ever increasing volume of manufactured goods A further factor was the breakdown in the Chinese system of government which was beginning at that time British relations with China were governed by the 1842 Treaty of Nanking that had ended the First China War more often called the Opium War Under this treaty Britain was permitted to establish a number of trading stations of which the most important was at Canton However relations were never good though conducted with very polite formality there were violations of the treaty on both sides and Britain's deployment of its military strength led to hostilities that became an undeclared war The papers in this volume portray an immensely complicated situation diplomatically politically and militarily Suffice it to say that Britain with other foreign powers prevailed and trade with China was subsequently opened up often called the Opium War Under this treaty Britain was permitted to establish a number of trading stations of which the most important was at Canton However relations were never good though conducted with very polite formality there were violations of the treaty on both sides and Britain's deployment of its military strength led to hostilities that became an undeclared war The papers in this volume portray an immensely complicated situation diplomatically politically and militarily Suffice it to say that Britain with other foreign powers prevailed and trade with China was subsequently opened up
