The Cry for Myth Rollo May,1991-05-01 Here are case studies in which myths have helped Dr May's patients make sense out of an often senseless world. It happens almost daily in a therapist's office. A patient recalling a person, an event, an emotion quite unexpectedly supplies a link from a life in the present to one of the durable myths of our culture. In this moment the myth becomes a mirror revealing to the patient the source of disturbance and pain in a pattern of behavior that often stretches a year or longer. The healing process begins. The myth, eternity breaking into time in Rollo May's words becomes the focal point of recovery. Through tracing myths, whether from classical Greece and Dante's Middle Ages European legend Faust and the prototype of Sleeping Beauty or contemporary American life Jay Gatsby and relating them to the dreams and associations he encounters in his own practice, Dr May provides meaning and structure for all who seek direction in a morally confusing world. In this perhaps the finest achievement of a great therapist, Rollo May writes with the grace, wit, and style for which he recently received the Gold Medal of the American Psychological Society.

One man's personal journey of grieving the loss of his wife, written over a period of 3 years. January 11, 2002. Oh Booby Booby Booby. This explains it all. I want you back so much, yet I don't fully understand this. It must be my way of handling or trying to my pain, thinking of the good times, wanting the good times, knowing that now they have to come from what I make. Round and round we go, it's an intriguing web we weave ourselves. The web breaks, so we have to spin a new one. This I will continue to do until I make a web so strong that I will feel safe, feel confident with myself. March 2, 2002. Still feeling as though I'm just floating like a feather in the wind. Like the feather, I don't know where I will land. It's as though I have no control, but I know for sure that this is not so. I'm in complete control; it is me allowing myself to be in this state. I want companionship so much, but I'm scared. I want to touch, explore, and feel someone. Selfishly for my own needs, but it's something I need to happen because I have to justify to myself that I can love again. Big Boys Don'T Cry Jeanne Tompkins, 2016-10-29.
