Mass Authorship and the Rise of Self-Publishing Timothy Laquintano,2016-10-15 In the last two decades digital technologies have made it possible for anyone with a computer and an Internet connection to rapidly and inexpensively self publish a book Once a stigmatized niche activity self publishing has grown explosively Hobbyists and professionals alike have produced millions of books circulating them through e readers and the web What does this new flood of books mean for publishing authors and readers Some lament the rise of self publishing because it tramples the gates and gatekeepers who once reserved publication for those who met professional standards Others tout authors new freedom from the narrow minded exclusivity of traditional publishing Critics mourn the death of the author fans celebrate the democratization of authorship Drawing on eight years of research and interviews with more than eighty self published writers Mass Authorship avoids the polemics instead showing how writers are actually thinking about and dealing with this brave new world Timothy Laquintano compares the experiences of self publishing authors in three distinct genres poker strategy guides memoirs and romance novels as well as those of writers whose self published works hit major bestseller lists He finds that the significance of self publishing and the challenge it presents to traditional publishing depend on the aims of authors the desires of their readers the affordances of their platforms and the business plans of the companies that provide those platforms In drawing a nuanced portrait of self publishing authors today Laquintano answers some of the most pressing questions about what it means to publish in the twenty first century How do writers establish credibility in an environment with no editors to judge quality How do authors police their copyrights online without recourse to the law How do they experience Amazon as a publishing platform And how do they find an audience when it sometimes seems there are more writers than readers
