The Construction of Truth in Contemporary Media Narratives about Risk John Gaffey, 2021-04-22 The Construction of Truth in Contemporary Media Narratives about Risk provides a theoretical framework for how in a post truth era media audiences are able to understand and navigate everyday risk The book examines media risk narratives and explores forms of truth experiential knowledge and authority Using the concept of parrhesia to show how we invest trust in various types of knowledge in a changing media environment the book demonstrates how we choose between expert and non expert information when navigating a seemingly risky world It considers how news media formats have previously engaged audiences through risk narratives and examines how experiential knowledge has come to hold a valuable place for individuals navigating what we are often told is an increasingly risky and uncertain world The book also examines the increasingly precarious position of expert knowledge and examines how contemporary truth games play out between experts and non experts and considers how this extends into the world of online and social media This book will be of interest to those researching or teaching in the areas of criminology sociology media and cultural studies and of interest to readers in professional areas such as journalism and politics Risk and Securitization in Japan Piers R. Williamson, 2013-11-26 Since the early 1990s there has been an emphasis in international relations theory on the shift from a Cold War rationality of threat to a post Cold War rationality of risk However in Risk and Securitization in Japan 1945 1960 Piers R Williamson argues that this assumption of a shift in rationality stems from a fundamental failure to distinguish between the concepts of threat and risk By clarifying the concepts of threat and risk this book challenges the prevailing hypothesis of a shift from threat to risk with the end of the Cold War and in doing so presents a new explanatory model of risk that can be applied to Japan and elsewhere In turn it proposes that a full comprehension of the concept of risk can generate new understandings of political processes that would otherwise remain obscured Williamson demonstrates how this can be done proffering a new perspective on Japanese security discourse especially the controversy between on the one hand early Japanese governments prime ministers Diet members and those Japanese who drafted the Japanese proposal for the new constitution and on the other hand intellectuals peace movement activists proponents of unarmed neutrality and the US Japan security treaty Including extensive archival material in the form of speeches public statements and government documents this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Japanese politics international relations and history alike Managing the Risks of Extreme Events and Disasters to Advance Climate Change Adaptation Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, 2012-05-28 Extreme weather and climate events interacting with exposed and vulnerable human and natural systems can lead to disasters This Special Report explores the social as well as physical dimensions of weather and climate related disasters considering opportunities for managing risks at local to international scales SREX was approved and accepted by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC on 18 November 2011 in Kampala Uganda A Framework of Intersectional Risk Theory in the Age of Ambivalence Katarina Giritli Nygren, Anna Olofsson, Susanna Öhman, 2019-12-11 This book brings feminist theories and concepts to the sociology of risk in an attempt to carve out a framework for intersectional risk theories in times of ambivalence The authors purport that risk is pervasive in the Global North and is fast becoming a hegemonic governing principle In order to understand this crucial aspect of society sociological risk theories and risk analysis must go beyond power and social inequalities to incorporate an intersectional risk approach that takes into account gender race and other critical perspectives Their proposed framework will provide the tools to assess how risk is situated in different configurations of power revealing cracks and openings in the weft of power and rethinking risk governance in contemporary society By utilising an intersectional and nuanced analysis the everyday understanding practices and discourses of risk can be explored and better understood This book will be of interest repeatedly finds itself mired in military interventions long after public buy in to the national interest has waned Why is the timely disengagement of military forces so difficult to achieve Traditional international relations theories diminish the role of the individual leader in favor of the state or international institutions Behavioral science theories have in recent years experienced a resurgence However the dominant behavioral explanation of foreign policy decision making prospect theory while it focuses on how people tend to make decisions under risk still minimizes the influence of the individual president Decisions to disengage military forces are presidential decisions just like the decisions to commit forces to foreign interventions If we accept this then it is important to understand if and if so why some presidents inherently are more or less acceptant of the risks disengagement presents This book operationalizes a competing personality based model of decision making under risk Referred to here as the trait based model it is assessed using disengagement opportunities in three varied levels of military intervention across four presidencies humanitarian relief turned nation building under George H W Bush and Bill Clinton in Somalia compellent air campaigns turned peace making keeping in Bosnia and Kosovo under Clinton and major combat operations turned irregular warfare in Iraq under George W Bush and Barack Obama Data for the model predominantly comes from existing presidential personality profiles based on the dominant model of personality theory the five factor model augmented by Myers Briggs Type Inventory data from public sources This study aims to explain the roughly 30 percent of cases which defy prospect theory s predictions and to better explain those cases where prospect theory might heretofore have sufficed The results suggest specific personality traits do in fact point to presidents predispositions toward risk which in turn help explain their disengagement decisions This work may be only the second to apply the five factor model to presidential foreign policy decision making and is the first to do so in the context of disengagement decisions Hopefully it will foster further work in both areas
