Rossington, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from Did Jesus Really Live: A Reply to the Christ Myth. The interest in Jesus of Nazareth seems to grow from more to more. Each succeeding age discovers in him some fresh attraction or reinterprets in accordance with its own needs aspects of his life and teaching which appealed to former times. In an age of criticism such as ours it is inevitable that much is called in question which once went unchallenged. Hence it needs occasion no surprise if Christianity is asked to give an account of itself. In such a case the task of the Christian apologist is not to denounce but to discuss to indicate that historical criticism is a means of defence and not a mere instrument of attack. Accordingly this little book attempts to deal suggestively rather than exhaustively with the important issue raised in recent critical works. It is written in the sincere hope that it may prove helpful to some who believe with the writer that the historic personality of Jesus is fundamental to Christian faith. Evans, 2016-06-13 Excerpt from The Christ Myth: A Study. Napoleon I in his conversations with Wieland expressed his disbelief in the historical existence of Christ, but that declaration seems to have made but little impression upon his hearer and was apparently received without comment by later readers of the statement. Napoleon not being considered an authority in such matters, although his logical faculty and mathematical genius were indisputable. At present this question is vital and imperative. It lies at the basis of the whole structure of Biblical criticism.

The Jesus Problem J. M. Robertson, 2017-12-21 Excerpt from The Jesus Problem A Restatement of the Myth Theory As was explained in the preamble to the historical Jesus that work was offered as prolegomena to a concise restatement of the theory that the Gospel Jesus is a mythical construction That theory had been discursively expounded by the writer in two large volumes Christianity and Mythology and Pagan Christs and summarily in A Short History of Christianity the argument in the two former combining a negative criticism of the New Testament narrative with an exposition of the myth evidence Criticism having in large part taken the form of a denial that the records were unhistorical it was necessary to clear the ground by showing that all the various attempts of the past generation to find in the gospels a historical residuum have entirely failed to meet critical tests Those attempts conflicting as they do with each other and collapsing as they do in themselves give undesigned support to the conclusion that the gospel story is without historic basis About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
