

A movie poster for the film 'City of God'. At the top, a large, close-up image of a young Black man (Alexandre Rodrigues) holding a camera to his eye, looking intensely at the viewer. The background is a fiery orange and red gradient. Below the main image, the title 'CITY OF GOD' is written in large, bold, white capital letters. Underneath the title, the tagline 'THE FIGHT RAGES ON' is written in smaller, bold, white capital letters. At the bottom, a group of ten diverse young people are standing in a line on a street in a favela, looking towards the camera. The street is narrow and flanked by multi-story buildings with balconies. The overall tone is gritty and intense.

The Historians' History of the World Vol.1 (of 25) (Illustrations) Henry Smith Williams, A complete world history should properly speaking begin with the creation of the world as man s habitat and should trace every step of human progress from the time when man first appeared on the globe Unfortunately the knowledge of to day does not permit us to follow this theoretical obligation We now know that the gaps in the history of human evolution as accessible to us to day vastly exceed the recorded chapters that in short the period with which history proper has at present to content itself is a mere moment in comparison with the vast reaches of time which in recognition of our ignorance we term prehistoric But this recognition of limitations of our knowledge is a quite recent growth no older indeed than a half century Prior to 1859 the people of Christendom rested secure in the supposition that the chronology of man s history was fully known from the very year of his creation One has but to turn to the first chapter of Genesis to find in the margin the date 4004 B C recorded with all confidence as the year of man s first appearance on the globe One finds there too a brief but comprehensive account of the manner of his appearance as well as of the creation of the earth itself his abiding place Until about half a century ago as has just been said the peoples of our portion of the globe rested secure in the supposition that this record and this date were a part of our definite knowledge of man's history. Therefore one finds the writers of general histories of the earlier days of the nineteenth century beginning their accounts with the creation of man B.C. 4004 and coming on down to date with a full and seemingly secure chronology. Our knowledge of the world and of man's history has come on by leaps and bounds since then with the curious result that to day no one thinks of making any reference to the exact date of the beginnings of human history unless indeed it be to remark that it probably reaches back some hundreds of thousands of years. The historian can speak of dates anterior to 4004 B.C. to be sure. The Egyptologist is disposed to date the building of the Pyramids a full thousand years earlier than that. And the Assyriologist is learning to speak of the state of civilisation in Chaldea some 6000 or 7000 years B.C. with a certain measure of confidence. But he no longer thinks of these dates as standing anywhere near the beginning of history. He knows that man in that age in the centres of progress had attained a high stage of civilisation and he feels sure that there were some thousands of centuries of earlier time during which man was slowly climbing through savagery and barbarism of which we have only the most fragmentary record. He does not pretend to know anything except by inference of the dawns of civilisation. Whichever way he turns in the centres of progress such as China, Egypt, Chaldea, India, he finds the earliest accessible records covering at best a period of only eight or ten thousand years giving evidence of a civilisation already far advanced. Of the exact origin of any one of the civilisations with which he deals he knows absolutely nothing. The Creation of Man with its fixed chronology is a chapter that has vanished from our modern histories. To be continued in this eBook.

Chinese Theatre: An Illustrated History Through Nuoxi and Mulianxi Xiaohuan Zhao,2021-12-30 Chinese Theatre An Illustrated History Through Nuoxi and Mulianxi is the first book in any language entirely devoted to a historical inquiry into Chinese theatre through Nuoxi and Mulianxi the two most representative and predominant forms of Chinese temple theatre Volume Two is a continuation of the historical inquiry into Chinese theatre with focus shifted from Mulian storytelling to Mulian story acting Thus this volume traces the historical trajectory of xiqu from Northern dramas to Southern dramas and from elite court theatre to mass regional theatre with pivotal forms and functions of Mulianxi examined explicated and illustrated in association with the development of corresponding genres of xiqu In so doing every aspect of Mulianxi is considered not in the margins of xiqu but in and of itself While this volume is primarily concerned with Mulianxi references are also made to other forms of Chinese performing arts and temple theatre Nuoxi in particular as Mulianxi has been performed since the twelfth century as or in company with Nuoxi to cleanse the community of evil spirits and epidemic diseases This is an interdisciplinary book project that is aimed to help researchers and students of theatre history understand the ritual origins of Chinese theatre and the dynamic relationships among myth ritual religion and theatre The War in the East (Illustrations) Trumbull White, Some striking act in a man s career is necessary to attract general attention to him The one who moves along through his path in life doing nothing out of the ordinary will win few glances from the public and little will the world notice his existence Worthy of the worthiest he may be but if he does nothing to demonstrate it how shall the world know his merit or his strength But with all this true it does not follow that it is man s duty to seek an occasion to advertise these qualities Only when the necessity for action arises then should he act and then will the world know what his ability and character are The same is true as to the nations of the earth Those years during which they move onward in their national life and history in peace and quietness however full of latent strength they may be are not the ones which command the attention of the eyes of the world It is the year of supreme test of struggle moral or physical that furnishes crucial testimony what the nation really is War is always a curse unless it be waged to advance justice and assure more worthy peace But if such a war be necessary the progress of it the results and the lessons they teach are essential to the student of humanity in whatever quarter of the globe the battles are China Japan and Corea are a strange trinity to most of us in the western world Separated from us by long distances and by immense differences in race in language in religion and in customs they have been known here only through the writings of the comparatively few travelers who exchange visits Of late years it is true the hermitages of the Orient have been opening to freer intercourse trade and treaties have multiplied and students have come to us for the knowledge we could give them But there was needed a great movement of some sort to awaken the Orient from its centuries of slumber and to make known to us the truth of eastern affairs Nothing could do this as the War in the East has done We can study its conduct and its results if we will in a way to teach us more of the characteristics of the three nations than we could learn in any other way It has been the object of the author in the present volume to record the facts of the war and its preliminaries so clearly that every seeker for knowledge might trace the lessons for himself To justify this effort it is necessary to say no more than that the conflict involves directly nations whose total population includes more than one fourth of the human race And the results will affect the progress of civilization in those countries as well as the commercial and other interests of all the European and American nations Invertebrate China with scorn of western methods and complacent rest in the belief that all but her own people are barbarians had to face an inevitable war with Japan the sprightly absorbent adaptive western spirited whose career in the two score years since her doors were opened to the call of the American Perry has been the marvel of those who knew it And the conflict was to be on the soil of the Hermit Nation Corea the Land of Morning Calm for centuries the land of contention between the Day s Beginning and the Middle Kingdom It is to record the history and description of these realms and peoples in sufficient detail to make plainer the facts of the war that the preliminary chapters are written The work must speak for itself The importance of the subjects included in the volume must be the explanation of any inadequacy of treatment
