The Crofton Boys - Kronheim Kronheim,2008-12-30 A passage from the book Mr Proctor the chemist and druggist kept his shop and lived in the Strand London His children thought that there was never anything pleasanter than the way they lived Their house was warm in winter and such a little distance from the church that they had no difficulty in getting to church and back again in the worst weather before their shoes were wet They were also conveniently near to Covent Garden market so that if any friend dropped in to dinner unexpectedly Jane and Agnes could be off to the market and buy a fowl or some vegetables or fruit and be back again before they were missed It was not even too far for little Harry to trot with one of his sisters early on a summer s morning to spend his penny when he happened to have one on a bunch of flowers to lay on papa s plate to surprise him when he came in to breakfast Not much farther off was the Temple Garden where Mrs Proctor took her children every fine summer evening to walk and breathe the air from the river and when Mr Proctor could find time to come to them for a turn or two before the younger ones must go home to bed it seemed to the whole party the happiest and most beautiful place in the whole world except one They had once been to Broadstairs when the children were in poor health after the measles The Playfellow Harriet Martineau,1841 The Young Boy's Story Book.
