Tales From The Dead Of Night Thirteen Classic Ghost Stories:

Tales from the Dead of Night: Thirteen Classic Ghost Stories Various, 2013-09-26 From a beautiful antique that gives its owner a show he'd rather forget to ghost detective whose exorcism goes horribly wrong and a sinister masked ball which seems to have one too many guests these ghost stories of supernatural terror are guaranteed to make you shiver thrill and look under the bed tonight From rural England to colonial India in murky haunted mansions and under modern electric lighting these master storytellers some of the best writers in the English language unfold spine-tinglers which pull back the veil of everyday life to reveal the nightmares which lurk just out of sight They are lessons in ingenuity and surprise sometimes building slowly to a chilling climax sometimes springing horror on you from the utterly banal And as you'd expect from these writers the stories are more than simply frightening they're also disquieting exposures of mortality loneliness and the human capacity for both evil and remorse We wish you pleasant dreams Contains ghost stories by Ruth Rendell M R James Rudyard Kipling Edith Wharton E F Benson E Nesbit Saki W W Jacobs W F Harvey Hugh Walpole Chico Kidd and L P Hartley

them on a web site then still ever increasing as people copied the text from their screens and re posted it on other sites So common has this become that today anyone with Web access can read these stories free So why should anyone want to pay for this anthology Aside from stubbornly clinging despite all apparent contrary evidence to the belief that a few decent people still think a living author deserves to be paid for their work even if in this case that work is merely compiling copy editing and formatting the work of authors long dead one reason I hope is that my readers might be interested in what I read as a youth and what I think makes a great and scary ghost tale Regarding Internet incarnations of these stories the quality format and integrity vary Scanning devices make mistakes and many people who ve scanned and republished these stories online seem to have picked whatever book magazine or anthology was convenient for the purpose and in many cases have only published much later reprints with text omissions abridgments and typos while often making more typos I have tried to present the stories here as closely as I could to their original first published incarnations as I as a kid read most of them rather than simply copy them from later reprints recent anthologies or Internet sites While I can t resurrect the atmosphere in which I first read these stories either while perusing them in the dank and dark of a creepy old junk shop or alone in my room in the dead of night in a spooky old Victorian house nor conjure up the graveyard smell of dusty decomposing books still I hope you ll discover shivers and frights in these thirteen classic ghost stories Jess Mowry 2017
