Piedmont, 2013-11-11 The assessment of individual differences has a long history As early as 2200 B C the Chinese were employing methods to select candidates for civil service positions Over the ensuing centuries philosophers theologians and the nobility all noticed and debated the role of character in shaping the destiny and quality of individual lives This interest spawned widely different methods of evaluating the timbre of temperament bumps on the head lines on the hand shape of the body all of which were employed in attempts to gain insight into basic human motives The emergence of the scientific method and its application to this endeavor reinvigorated society's efforts in this direction and an abundant variety of assessment instruments consequently became available The outbreak of World War I created a need for the efficient assessment of individual differences in large groups Such instruments as the Woodworth Personal Data Sheet and the Army Alpha Test resulted in genuine breakthroughs in assessment technology These tests provided standardized sets of items that permitted quantitative comparisons among people Over the years numerous scales have been developed which have been based on widely differing levels of psychometric sophistication Behavioral Assessment and Rehabilitation of the

Traumatically Brain-Damaged Barry A. Edelstein, Eugene T. Couture, 2013-11-22 This book developed out of the editors' longstanding interest in the retraining of traumatically brain damaged adults and the management of their behavior by family members A search for relevant experimental evidence to support the clinical use of behavioral principles for retraining which began in 1977 turned up little empirical support Moreover the literature on retraining was dispersed among a variety of journals published in various countries Nowhere was there a compendium of literature that addressed issues of assessment and retraining There was no place to turn if one wanted to move from a standard neuropsychological evaluation to the retraining of skill deficits revealed in the evaluation We have attempted to edit a book that represents what we had hoped to find in the literature and could be used by professionals in clinical psychology clinical neuropsychology rehabilitation medicine physical therapy speech therapy and other disciplines that address rehabilitation of brain damaged adults a book that addresses assessment and rehabilitation issues and is sufficiently detailed to offer the reader a starting point in developing behavioral assessment and rehabilitation programs The book contains conceptual foundations reviews of research descriptions of successful rehabilitation programs and relatively detailed approaches to the retraining of specific skills A shift from an assessment based practice to one encompassing both prescriptive assessment and treatment has become a recognized transition in the neuropsychological literature and was best articulated in an article by Gerald Goldstein in March of 1979 Research Report, 1975 Essential Assessment Skills for Couple and Family Therapists Lee Williams, Todd M. Edwards, JoEllen Patterson, Larry Chamow, 2011-07-19 Showing how to weave assessment into all phases of therapy this indispensable text and practitioner guide is reader friendly straightforward and practical Specific strategies are provided for evaluating a wide range of clinical issues and concerns with adults children and adolescents families and couples The authors demonstrate ways to use interviewing and other techniques to understand both individual and relationship functioning develop sound treatment plans and monitor progress Handy mnemonics help beginning family therapists remember what to include in assessments and numerous case examples illustrate what the assessment principles look like in action with diverse clients See also the authors Essential Skills in Family Therapy Third Edition From the First Interview to Termination which addresses all aspects of real world clinical practice and Clinician's Guide to Research Methods in Family Therapy Summary of ARI Research on Military Delinquency D. B. Bell, R. F. Holz, 1975 Most ARI research on military delinquency has focused on predicting at the point of entry those personnel most likely to commit delinquent acts within a fixed time period e g by the end of Basic Combat Training Across the variety of investigations which focused on various types of delinquency some consistent findings emerge Component of service i e volunteers vs draftees and several closely associated variables age at entry level of education and mental ability are associated with delinquent acts such background data and peer ratings provide the best predictors Attempts to develop a more precise profile of the military delinquent have not been very successful and programs aimed at rehabilitation of potential delinquents have actually proved counterproductive All of these outcomes suggest that future research should concentrate more on the context in which delinquency occurs and less on the characteristics of those who commit delinquent acts Assessment in Counseling Danica G. Hays, 2017-05-18 The latest edition of this perennial bestseller instructs and updates students and clinicians on the basic principles of psychological assessment and measurement recent changes in assessment procedures and the most widely used tests in counseling practice today Dr Danica Hays guides counselors in the appropriate selection interpretation and communication of assessment results This edition covers more than 100 assessment

Clinical Neuropsychology and Cost Outcome Research George Prigatano, Neil Pliskin, 2020-03-27 Neuropsychologists are being increasingly called upon to demonstrate the value of their services This edited book introduces clinical neuropsychologists to the concepts and challenges involved in conducting cost outcome research It provides examples of how such research can be conducted within clinical neuropsychology and therefore is a beginning step in what must become an interdisciplinary effort The text suggests that more than cost effectiveness studies should be considered when demonstrating the clinical utility of neuropsychological services The concept of objective and subjective markers of value is emphasized particularly as it relates to measuring the impact of a neuropsychological examination Chapters review the economic burdens associated with different neurological conditions commonly seen by neuropsychologists They also provide examples of how clinical neuropsychological services to different patient populations may reduce costs and increase benefits and suggest directions for beginning cost outcome research Furthermore the book summarizes the utility of various neuropsychological services that may be helpful to readers concerned with healthcare economies The book is intended as a resource for clinical neuropsychologists who wish to explain to healthcare providers the value of their work It is the first book of the National Academy of Neuropsychology book series entitled Neuropsychology Scientific Bases and Clinical Application The Treatment of Stuttering in the Young School Aged Child Roberta Lees,2005-03-11 This practical text brings together well known writers from the UK USA and Australia It sets out to discuss the assessment and treatment of the young school aged child who stutters aged approx 7 to 12 years A number of differing treatment approaches for this client group are presented in the one volume The contributors as well as describing their treatment approaches have considered the theoretical models on which their approaches are based and ways of measuring outcomes an important topic in an age of evidence based practice In order to gain a more comprehensive view of the school aged child one chapter considers epidemiology of stuttering whilst two chapters address the issue of concomitant problems such as other language problems and ADHD This text is written for students and clinicians working with children who stutter It will also be of interest to researchers Solution-Focused Pastoral Counseling Charles Allen Kollar,2011-05-03 An original effective and time saving approach that benefits pastors overtaxed by counseling demands fully updated and expanded Professional counselor and pastor Dr Charles Allen Kollar found that counseling does not need not be long term or depend on psychological manipulation to produce dramatic results In most cases the solution lies with the counselees themselves Using the tested methods found in Solution Focused Pastoral Counseling pastors apart from counselors will be well equipped to help their counselees discover a solution and put it in motion speedily and productively Institute healthy change by helping the counselee see and work on the solution with God s activity already present in his her life create solutions with not for the counselee Solution Focused Pastoral Counseling does not require the counselor to be a highly trained psychological expert It requires biblically based sensitivity and common sense Yet this approach also recognizes its limitations and understands that there are situations in which other professional and or medical help is required This book reveals the possibility of life without the problem through an understanding of what is different when the problem does not occur or is less intrusive
