and Local Government in South Korea Youngah Guahk, 2025-06-20 This book addresses one of the key issues of our time: the process of sustainable transition in modern industrial societies by looking at the dynamics associated with this objective at the decentralised local level in South Korea. The creation of eco-cities is a crucial aspect in the ongoing urbanisation of East Asia, and this book investigates specific examples of Korean local governments embarking on the path towards sustainable urban development and assesses their achievements. Making use of a wide range of sources and data collection methods, the book studies two diverse cases in great depth: Suwon City and Jeju Province. By systematically comparing the aims, strategies, and decision-making processes in these two examples, the book illuminates the relative roles played by local leaders, central government, civil society representatives, and even international organisations. Highlighting the challenges, driving forces, and limitations impacting sustainable transition at the local level, this book will be a valuable resource to students and scholars of Korean politics, decentralisation, urban governance, sustainable development, and city planning.

The national forest Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2010-03-19 The National Forest project was established in 1995 with the aim of creating a new English forest across a 200 square mile area embracing parts of Leicestershire Staffordshire and Derbyshire The National Forest's purpose is to increase woodland cover to a third of The National Forest area whilst demonstrating sustainable multi purpose land use including growing timber providing leisure and tourism facilities and developing natural habitats Key features of The National Forest are its linkage of previously isolated ancient woodlands and the establishment of new nature reserves as well as the provision of a framework for farm diversification and the regeneration of former coalfields It is delivering tangible environmental economic and social benefits to an area of the Midlands much of which was suffering economic and environmental decline through planting trees to create new woods and forests Its achievement is not so much in trebling the proportion of land with tree cover to 18 per cent but that in so doing it has helped to regenerate the local economy open up the Forest to greater public use and improve the natural environment The success has been built on the commitment and skills of all the partner organisations and The National Forest Company has played a crucial leadership role to enable the project to deliver effectively the multiple benefits of forestry There needs to be a systematic approach to disseminating the company s experiences so that lessons learned can be exploited across England
