, 2006 Spatial Regression Analysis Using Eigenvector Spatial Filtering Daniel Griffith, Yongwan Chun, Bin Li, 2019-09-14

Spatial Regression Analysis Using Eigenvector Spatial Filtering provides theoretical foundations and guides practical implementation of the Moran eigenvector spatial filtering MESF technique MESF is a novel and powerful spatial statistical methodology that allows spatial scientists to account for spatial autocorrelation in their georeferenced data analyses Its appeal is in its simplicity yet its implementation drawbacks include serious complexities associated with constructing an eigenvector spatial filter This book discusses MESF specifications for various intermediate level topics including spatially varying coefficients models non linear mixed models local spatial autocorrelation space time models and spatial interaction models Spatial Regression Analysis Using Eigenvector Spatial Filtering is accompanied by sample R codes and a Windows application with illustrative datasets so that readers can replicate the examples in the book and apply the methodology to their own application projects It also includes a Foreword by Pierre Legendre Reviews the uses of ESF across linear regression generalized linear regression spatial autocorrelation measurement and spatially varying coefficient models Includes computer code and template datasets for further modeling Provides comprehensive coverage of related concepts in spatial data analysis and spatial statistics Spatial Autocorrelation Daniel A. spatial statistical body of theory This work has been undertaken by geographers statisticians regional scientists econometricians and others e g sociologists It has led to the publication of a number of books including Cliff and Ord s Spatial Processes 1981 Bartlett s The Statistical Analysis of Spatial Pattern 1975 Ripley s Spatial Statistics 1981 Paelinck and Klaassen s Spatial Econometrics 1979 Ahuja and Schachter s Pattern Models 1983 and Upton and Fingleton s Spatial Data Analysis by Example 1985 The first of these books presents a useful introduction to the topic of spatial autocorrelation focusing on autocorrelation indices and their sampling distributions The second of these books is quite brief but nevertheless furnishes an eloquent introduction to the relationship between spatial autoregressive and two dimensional spectral models Ripley s book virtually ignores autoregressive and trend surface modelling and focuses almost solely on point pattern analysis Paelinck and Klaassen s book closely follows an econometric textbook format and as a result overlooks much of the important material necessary for successful spatial data analysis It almost exclusively addresses distance and gravity models with some treatment of autoregressive modelling Pattern Models supplements Cliff and Ord s book which in combination provide a good introduction to spatial data analysis Its basic limitation is a preoccupation with the geometry of planar patterns and hence is very narrow in scope

Geographically Weighted Regression A. Stewart Fotheringham, Chris Brunsdon, Martin Charlton, 2003-02-21 Geographical Weighted Regression GWR is a new local modelling technique for analysing spatial analysis This technique allows local as opposed to global models of relationships to be measured and mapped This is the first and only book on this technique offering comprehensive coverage on this new hot topic in spatial analysis Provides step by step examples of how to use the GWR model using data sets and examples on issues such as house price determinants educational attainment levels and school performance statistics Contains a broad discussion of and basic concepts on GWR through to ideas on statistical inference for GWR models uniquely features accompanying author written software that allows users to undertake sophisticated and complex forms of GWR within a user friendly Windows based front end see book for details

Spatial Econometrics using Microdata Jean Dubé, Diègo Legros, 2014-11-10 This book provides an introduction to spatial analyses concerning disaggregated or micro spatial data Particular emphasis is put on spatial data compilation and the structuring of the connections between the observations Descriptive analysis methods of spatial data are presented in order to identify and measure the spatial global and local dependency The authors then focus on autoregressive spatial models to control the problem of spatial dependency between the residues of a basic linear statistical model thereby contravening one of the basic hypotheses of the ordinary least squares approach This book is a popularized reference for students looking to work with spatialized data but who do not have the advanced statistical theoretical basics
