Special Senses Stations

Introduction: You are currently surrounded with sensory information changing the environment and your sensory system. "Senses" are types of sensory systems that process information from the environment and deliver it to the brain. The five senses are sight, hearing, touch, taste, and smell. Each sense has a specific organ that receives the information and sends it to the brain. The brain then processes the information and sends it back to the body to respond. The five senses are: sight, hearing, touch, taste, and smell. Each sense has a specific organ that receives the information and sends it to the brain. The brain then processes the information and sends it back to the body to respond.
