

Outdoor Elements

In designing a speaker for a specific environment, the tuning or voicing of that speaker is extremely critical. The voicing for an outdoor speaker is completely different than one designed for interior use. The Outdoor Elements have gone through an extensive voicing process to ensure they provide both the required sound pressure level and musicality in all exterior situations.

At SpeakerCraft, we listen. We listen to music of all types and genres. We listen to music both live and recorded. We listen carefully to the loudspeakers we produce because measuring the performance with test instruments and a computer will never tell you exactly what a loudspeaker will sound like when it's actually in the environment it was intended for. Every speaker we produce is designed and built to provide you with the most realistic musical reproduction possible.
