Lesson 31

"English Police Siren"

Step 1 - Take Inventory

Check the components list on the right, then verify that you have all the components for this project. If you are missing any components, please contact your instructor for assistance. Make sure that you have all the components before you begin Step 2.

Step 2 - Build the circuit.

Build the circuit diagram shown in the Pictorial Diagram. Verify that the components are connected to the breadboard correctly. Double-check the circuit to verify that you have all the components before you begin Step 3.

Schematic for the English Police Siren

Step 3 - Do Experiment

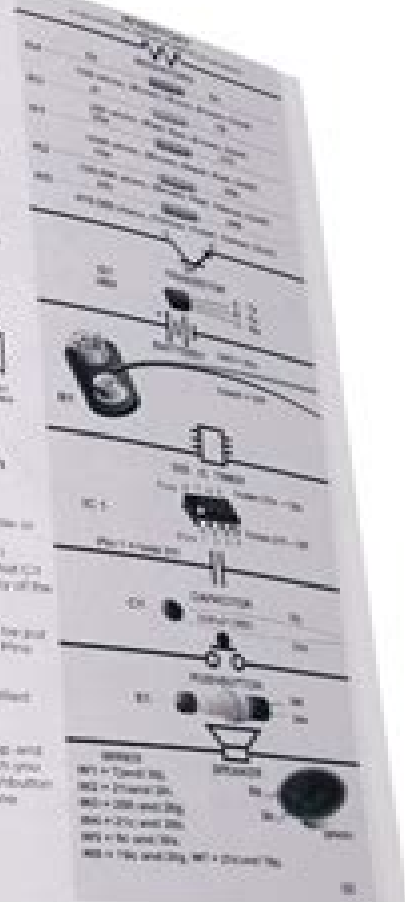

Now we have a 563 timer IC working as a square wave generator. As we vary the resistance value of the resistors, the amount of time to charge C1 varies. As the value of the resistors, the faster the C1 charges, the faster the frequency of the square wave changes.

When the switch S1 is closed, the 470K ohm resistor is connected to the base of the timer IC, thus changing the resistance to the base of the timer IC.

When the switch S1 is open, the 100K ohm resistor is connected to the base of the timer IC, thus changing the resistance to the base of the timer IC.

Warning: Connect a 9V battery to the Battery Strip and connect the other end of the battery to the ground terminal. As you press and release the pushbutton, you will be able to create the sounds of the two-tone siren.
