Members' contributions show the funds generally met the targets of 100 per cent. Managing authorities' expenditure responsibilities were covered to the general budget level of 90 per cent in that year, and the other authority used about 90 per cent of its resources to provide fully covering the various needs of the general budget. However, the managing board of the Institute for Education in the United Kingdom reported that the year was very difficult and that the general budget was not fully covered.

Multi-level management involvement is generally very important. Management interest must extend to all levels, starting with shareholders. But beyond the responsibility of board level for effective risk governance, management must give the operational manager, particularly cost controllers at the plant level, responsibility for the management of the level of production of the specific product, and the senior management must monitor, manage and control the entire supply chain, including subcontractors and suppliers, to ensure the quality of the supply chain. The management must ensure that the supply chain is secure and that the supply chain is not disrupted by any external factors, including the supply chain, the supply chain, and the supply chain.
