Cross-cultural Universals of Aesthetic Appreciation in Decorative Band Patterns Marius Machiel Hardonk, 1999 In aesthetics it is generally assumed that preferences depend on culture and personality Although cultural and personal preferences can indeed differ to a large extent there is also a significant shared preference independent of culture and personality Investigation to what extent properties of aesthetic objects are independent of culture To this purpose decorative band patterns from cultures all over the world and throughout history are compared There might be some universal aesthetic preferences of the designers of the patterns and their customers The West in the World, Volume I: To 1715 Dennis Sherman, Joyce Salisbury, 2007-12-06 The West in the World relates the story of how the west has transformed and been transformed by the rest of the world The authors examine the West s contributions to the world and how the west has changed and embraced new ideas through contact with the people outside its center Using a political cultural framework the text weaves a strong thread of social history into the narrative by showing how civilizations grow and are shaped through the decisions and actions of real people The authors bring history to life by using art and maps as a central feature of learning They build discussions of art into the narrative to help students interpret artwork and provide analytical map guides that reveal the connections between geography politics and other developments This strong rich narrative is short enough to allow instructors the flexibility of introducing other sources and books as supplement while giving students a solid understanding of Western Civilization without overwhelming them Perspectives on History , 2009 Iberian Colonies, New World Societies Richard L.
