everything she's ever wanted by ending the fae. Never mind that magic is nothing more than a fairy story to the people of Westrend or that her father the general is afraid to so much as speak their name. Etta can see the truth. The shadows of the Riven Court walk among them and their very presence puts the entire kingdom in danger. But for Etta there is a vengeance more personal to pay. If she can just take her place as marshal she'll gain the standing required to steal back what's hers. What Etta doesn't know is that one thing stands between her and the coveted position she needs so badly. His name is Gideon Alexander. Within the Hollow Heart Nickolas Brigham was meant to marry a princess. Everyone said so. His mother mostly but it wasn't the time to quibble. If he doesn't marry a woman of station soon he'll be tied to a fate worse than ruination. When he's dragged bodily into a compromising situation his only choice is to accept the aid of the doe-eyed damsel he chances upon in his attempt at escape. But Jules is no meek maiden. She's clever and quick and has terms of her own. Nickolas must vow to break her curse before the fae prince comes to collect his due. Yes, only that and the minor feat of fooling the kingdom by faking their betrothal. Upon the Riven Throne. It is a truth universally acknowledged that a cursed prince must be in want of a wife to break his curse. But when a princess on the run bargains her way into his palace he discovers he's not the only one who guards a secret. Princess Mireille is in trouble. Her kingdom is under siege by a cruel and powerful fae and Mireille's only chance to save it lies beyond the filigree wall in the kingdom of another fae. Prince Alder is prickly at best. Between dark and ancient secrets, meddling palace staff and vicious fae courtiers a princess would be hard pressed to win him over. But he wants nothing more than to break the curse that binds him and Mireille might be the only way to see it done.
