Mobile Telecommunications in a High-Speed World Peter Curwen,Jason Whalley,2016-07-22 Mobile Telecommunications in a High Speed World tells the story of 3G and higher speed mobile communication technologies Over ten years have passed since the first third generation 3G licences were awarded following debates about the merits of auctions versus beauty contests then nothing much happened More licences were issued a few roll outs commenced and everyone began to think it had all been a horribly expensive mistake That may still turn out to be the case but in the meantime there have been massive developments in terms of the number of licences and launches worldwide in the range of services that can be accessed in the range of devices that can be used to access them in operator strategies etc Even the technology has improved considerably with 4G now under discussion Much of this story has been chronicled largely on the Internet but the information is in tens of thousands of bits and pieces and a large part of it is either misleading or just plain wrong Here Peter Curwen and Jason Whalley introduce the outcomes of research that has involved the compilation of a unique database which details every licence and launch worldwide involving 3G The authors discuss the structure of the industry and the strategic behaviour of operators as well as the social consequences of the spread of 3G They examine the role of new entry upon competition and present analysis of the main operators involved the development of handsets and especially smartphones A number of country case studies are included This comprehensive and up to date volume includes a number of country studies and is written by two of the world s foremost researchers on this industry Mobile

Telecommunications in a High Speed World will serve the needs of students academics and those involved or contemplating involvement with the telecoms industry Why pay thousands of dollars to consultancies to separate the wheat from the chaff with respect to 3G when you can read this book

Political

Communication in Real Time Dan Schill,Rita Kirk,Amy E. Jasperson,2016-10-04 Much has been made of the speed and constancy of modern politics Whether watching cable news retweeting political posts or receiving news alerts on our phones political communication now happens continuously and in real time Traditional research methods often do not capture this dynamic environment Early studies that guided the study of political communication took place at a time when transistors and FM radio television and widely distributed films technologically changed the way people gained information and developed knowledge of the world around them Now the environment has transformed again through digital innovations This book provides one of the first systematic assessment of real time methods used to study the new digital media environment It features twelve chapters authored by leading researchers in the field using continuous or real time response methods to study political communication in various forms Moreover the authors explain how viewer attitudes can be measured over time message effects can be pin pointed down to the second of impact behaviors can be tracked and analyzed unobtrusively and respondents can naturally respond on their smartphone tablet or even console gaming system Leading practitioners in the field working for CNN Microsoft and Twitter show how the approach is being innovatively used in the field Political Communication in Real Time is a welcome addition to the growing field of interest in big data and continuous response research This volume will appeal to scholars and practitioners in political science and communication studies wishing to gain new insights into the strengths and limitations of this approach Political communication is a continuous process so theories applications and cognitive models of such communication require continuous measures and methods
