Town Planning for Australia George Taylor, 2014-08-07 George Taylor's Town Planning for Australia was the first dedicated book on the subject of urban planning published in Australia. Journalistic and ideological in style, it sets out a robust vision for a specifically Australian approach to planning and development of towns in a young country. Taylor was a controversial figure, a political activist and publisher who brought the NSW Town Planning Association into existence and played a key role in publishing and promoting planning into the 1920s. His wife Florence Taylor was the first female qualified architect and trained engineer in Australia and an important figure in the history of planning and publishing in Australia.

The Routledge Handbook of International Planning Education Nancey Green Leigh, Steven P French, Subhrajit Guhathakurta, Bruce Stiffler, 2019-07-23 The Routledge Handbook of International Planning Education is the first comprehensive handbook with a unique focus on planning education. Comparing approaches to the delivery of planning education by three major planning education accreditation bodies in the United States, Australia, and the United Kingdom and reflecting concerns from other national planning systems, this handbook will help to meet the strong interest and need for understanding how planning education is developed and delivered in different international contexts. The handbook is divided into five major sections including coverage of general planning knowledge, planning skills, traditional and emerging planning specializations, and pedagogy. An international cohort of contributors covers each subject's role in educating planners, its theory and methods, key literature, contributions, and course design. Higher education's response to globalization has included growth in planning educational exchanges across international boundaries. The Routledge Handbook of International Planning Education is an essential resource for planners and planning educators informing the dialogue on the mobility of planners educated under different national schemes.

Planning Metropolitan Australia Stephen Hamnett, Robert Freestone, 2017-10-24 Australia has long been a highly sub-urbanized nation, but the major distinctive feature of its contemporary settlement pattern is that the great majority of Australians live in a small number of large metropolitan areas focused on the state capital cities. The development and application of effective urban policy at a regional scale is a significant global challenge given the complexities of urban space and governance. Building on the editors' previous collection The Australian Metropolis: A Planning History 2000, this new book examines the recent history of metropolitan planning in Australia since the beginning of the twenty first century After a historical prelude the book is structured around a series of six case studies of metropolitan Melbourne Sydney Adelaide Perth the fast growing metropolitan region of South East Queensland centred on Brisbane and the national capital of Canberra These essays are contributed by some of Australia s leading urbanists Set against a dynamic background of economic change restructured land uses a more diverse population and growing spatial and social inequality the book identifies a broad planning consensus around the notion of making Australian cities more contained compact and resilient But it also observes a continuing gulf between the simplified aims of metropolitan strategies and our growing understanding of the complex functioning of the varied communities in which most people live This book reflects on the raft of planning challenges presented at the metropolitan scale looks at what the future of Australian cities might be and speculates about the prospects of more effective metropolitan planning arrangements
