O. Box,2012-12-06 This study arose out of the old question of what actually determines vegetation structure and distributions Is climate the overriding control as one would suppose from reading the more geographically oriented literature Or is climate only incidental as suggested by more site and or taxon oriented writers The question might be phrased more realistically How much does climate control vegetation processes structures and distributions It seemed to me as an ambitious doctoral student that one way to attempt an answer might be to try to predict world vegetation from climate alone and then compare the predicted results with actual vegetation patterns If climatic data were sufficient to reproduce the world s actual vegetation patterns then one could conclude that climate is the main control This book represents an expanded second generation version of that original thesis It presents world scale vegetation and ecoclimatic models and a methodology for applying such models to predict vegetation and for evaluating model results This approach also provides a means of geographical simulation of vegetation patterns and changes which represent necessary data inputs in other fields such as atmospheric chemistry and biogeochemical cycling It has been fairly well accepted that climatic and other environmental conditions are associated with the evolution of particular aspects of plant form convergent evolution The particular configurations of plant size photosynthetic surface area and structure e g sclerophylly stomatal resistance and their seasonal variations represent what one can recognize fairly readily as distinct growth forms Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1994 Multi-Scale Biogeochemical Processes in Soil Ecosystems Yu Yang,Marco Keiluweit,Nicola Senesi,Baoshan Xing,2022-04-12 MULTI SCALE BIOGEOCHEMICAL PROCESSES IN SOIL ECOSYSTEMS Provides a state of the art overview of research in soil biogeochemical processes and strategies for greenhouse gas mitigation under climate change Food security and soil health for the rapidly growing human population are threatened by increased temperature and drought soil erosion and soil quality degradation and other problems caused by human activities and a changing climate Because greenhouse gas emission is the primary driver of climate change a complete understanding of the cycles of carbon and major nutritional elements is critical for developing innovative strategies to sustain agricultural development and environmental conservation Multi Scale Biogeochemical Processes in Soil Ecosystems Critical Reactions and Resilience to Climate Changes is an up to date overview of recent research in soil biogeochemical processes and applications in ecosystem management Organized into three parts the text examines molecular scale processes and critical reactions presents ecosystem scale studies of ecological hotspots and discusses large scale modeling and prediction of global biogeochemical cycles Part of the Wiley IUPAC Series on Biophysico Chemical Processes in Environmental Systems this authoritative volume
