Psychosocial Pathways Towards Reinventing the South African University Sabrina Liccardo, 2020-11-02 This book proposes a conceptual empirical framework for exploring forms of continuity and change along psychosocial pathways in South African universities. It illustrates how the psychosocial pathways are grounded in the symbolic narratives and knowledges of young scientists, engineers and architects, all interlocutors in the research from which this book is based. Alala Mamoratwa Welile Odirile Kaiya Amirah Takalani Nosakhele Naila Ambani Khanyisile Itumeleng Ethwasa and Kgnaya provide collective standpoints in the multiplicities within and between the lived lives and told stories of young Black South African women in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) fields. In doing so, this compelling work advances possibilities for demythologising scientific endeavour as a white male achievement and shifting knowledge communities across gendered, racialised class and national divides. This book presents an innovative narrative methodology utilising the myth of the Minotaur to examine the state of the university at the heart of the hierarchical labyrinth in post-apartheid South Africa. Throughout the work, the author wrestles with and self-reflexively highlights her own positionality as a white middle-class South African woman to examine how this affects the production of this research in ways which serve to preserve the colonial knowledge system. With the rise of the Rhodes Must Fall and Fees Must Fall student movement in South Africa, demanding for the fall of institutionalised racial hierarchies, the author uses the cover image of narrative formations in the spirit of exploration to think with and through undulating networked forms that could possibly forge new psychosocial pathways towards decolonising and reinventing South African universities. This work offers a unique conceptual and methodological resource for students and scholars of psychosocial and narrative theory as well as those who are concerned about the politics of higher education both in South Africa and in other contexts around the world. Handbook of Literacy in Diglossia and in Dialectal Contexts Elinor Saiegh-Haddad, Lior Laks, Catherine McBride, 2022-03-14 This volume is the first published collection of papers on the impact of diglossia and dialectal variations on language and literacy acquisition, impairment and education. The authors are pioneering in this field and are leading researchers with substantial experience in conducting research in this area. A wide range of areas and languages are covered, including the US, South Africa, Israel and various European countries. The chapters present novel data and insights regarding the role of dialectal variations on language and literacy from a wide range of countries and perspectives. These insights have significant theoretical and practical implications. A majority of literacy learners worldwide are taught to read and write in a language variety or a dialect that is not the same as their spoken language. Not only is this the global norm, but it is probably also the greatest obstacle to literacy learning. This volume is the first published collection of papers on the role of dialect in language and literacy acquisition, impairment and education in a variety of languages and situations across Europe, the Middle East, North America, Africa and Asia. The authors are pioneers in this field. Language and Sustainable Development Lisa J.

McEntee-Atalianis, Humphrey Tonkin, 2023-03-03 This book addresses the importance of language in matters of sustainability and incorporating such concerns in implementing the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Sustainable language policy must aim to include all groups including language minorities and marginalized populations such as refugees and aid recipients in conditions that allow for their inclusion in making and implementing policy. The book brings together nine studies covering such topics as language and digital resources, sustainable and inclusive multilingual education, national language policy, and language in peacekeeping operations. A final chapter addresses the crucial intersection between sociolinguistics and economics and the implications of this for development and the SDGs. Teaching Mathematics in Multilingual Classrooms J.B. Adler, 2005-12-21 Increasingly, teachers all over the world are grappling on a daily basis with the fact of multilingual classrooms. In this book, Jill Adler captures three inter-related dilemmas that lie at the heart of teaching mathematics in multilingual classrooms. Adler's identification and naming of the dilemma of code-switching, the dilemma of mediation, and the dilemma of transparency arise from exploring the realities of actual classrooms and are shaped by a perspective of teaching as a social practice. Adler provides a sharp analysis and strong theoretical grounding for her work, pulling together research related to the relationship between language and mathematics, communicating mathematics, and mathematics in bi-multilingual settings. In so doing, she offers a direct challenge to dominant research on communication in mathematics classrooms that has othered the multilingual setting in its normalisation of the monolingual classroom. The norm is a multicultural one. Set in contemporary South Africa, a context of linguistic diversity and rapid change, this book offers a spotlight whose beam is wide enough to illuminate dilemmas at work in all mathematics classrooms. Towards a holistic approach to support learners at risk of interrupted development Macalane J. Malindi, Johnnie Hay, Thabo Makhalemele, 2024-02-23 The COVID-19 pandemic and the restrictions that came with it led to unprecedented disruptions in learner development and put them at risk of poor developmental outcomes. It is thus important that the extent of the disruption on their development and the support needs of learners be investigated. Researching the impact of the disruption should focus on holistic development. In this book, the authors use multiple research approaches and methods of gathering data in their respective fields to examine the impact of the disruption and determine the support needs of learners. Data gathered through the different methods are processed and findings are presented. The findings have implications for both practice and future research in the fields of inclusive education, learner support, educational psychology, movement education, Life Orientation, and curriculum development. Contemporary Issues in South African Military Psychology Nicole Dodd, Petrus C. Bester, Justin van der Merwe, 2020-05-13 Contemporary Issues in South African Military Psychology is a well-timed, extremely thought-provoking, imperative particular to the African context, and deals with a highly contemporary issue within the people management and the management studies fields, specifically in the military field and context. This is specifically of importance as military psychology is a behavioural science that combines theory and practical application. Prof
