

How to Write a Rhetorical Analysis: Important Parts

Analyze the Text

- Look for the author's purpose, the target audience, and the text's context

Organize Your Analysis

- Begin with an introduction that provides some background information on the text and the author's purpose.
- Break down the text into smaller sections and analyze each in detail.
- Use specific examples from the text to support your analysis.

Write Your Analysis

- Start with an attention-grabbing introduction that sets the tone for your analysis.
- Work through your analysis, using specific examples from the text to support your arguments.
- Provide the summary in the conclusion and a final statement about the author's effectiveness using key rhetorical concepts.

should abandon its hope to teach a sort of general academic discourse and instead should systematically teach strategies of responding to contextual elements that impinge on the writing situation Her data urge attention to issues of learning transfer and to developmentally sound linkages in writing instruction within and across disciplines Beaufort advocates special attention to discourse community theory for its power to help students perceive and understand the context of writing
