

CHIEFTAIN VERSUS OTHER HIGH-STORAGE MOTOR HOMES

How high storage motor homes increase the storage space by substantially increasing the height, which may affect handling and stability.

Because the Chieftain was designed from the ground up as a high storage, low profile motor home, Roadway's engineers were able to keep the roof height low.

Chieftain has a lower center of gravity and reduced weight of more than most listed motor homes.

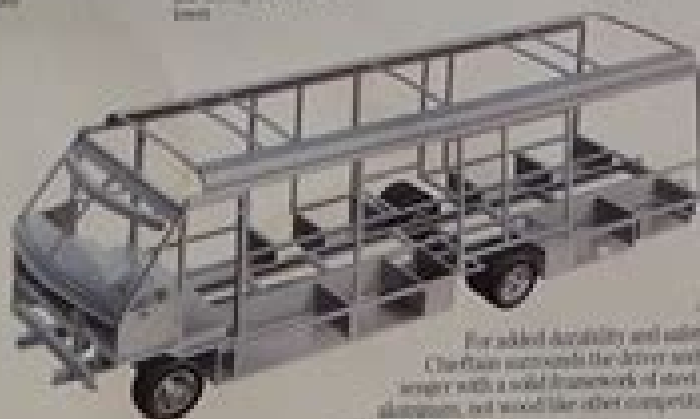

Chieftain's smooth, single piece aluminum, with no exposed steel, is not just stronger, it's lighter and provides protection from rust.

The interior storage bins have up to twice the space of a standard motor home and add many convenient details. All the space is easily accessible.

Compared to other motor homes, Chieftain's design is one that reduces the risk of most high storage motor homes.

Because they designed Chieftain from the ground up, Roadway's engineers were able to remove the floor height of most motor homes and still maintain the same level of interior space and stability.

The interior is designed to be easy to use, with no exposed hardware. Further evidence of Chieftain's low for the road.

For added durability and safety the Chieftain motor home has a driver and passenger with a solid framework of steel and aluminum, not wood like other competitive motor homes.

The storage compartments are framed with ribbed, galvanized steel panels for extra strength and durability. The reinforced steel floor runs between the chassis rails to allow even heat distribution and efficient use of interior space.
