deconstructing his era's conventions regarding literary heroism. It is sometimes considered the principal founder of the Victorian domestic novel. The story is framed as a puppet play and the narrator, despite being an authorial voice, is notoriously unreliable. Late in the narrative, it is revealed that the entire account has been 2nd or 3rd hand gossip the writer picked up years ago from Lord Tapeworm, British chargé d'affaires in one of the minor German states and relative of several of the other aristocrats in the story, but none of the main characters: the famous little Becky, the Amelia Doll, the Dobbin, Figure the Little Boys, and the Wicked Nobleman, on which no expense has been spared. Despite her many stated faults and still worse ones admitted to have been passed over in silence, Becky emerges as the hero.

Author: William Makepeace Thackeray (1811–1863) was an English novelist of the 19th century. He is known for his satirical works, particularly Vanity Fair, a panoramic portrait of English society. Thackeray, an only child, was born in Calcutta, British India, where his father, Richmond Thackeray (1 September 1781–13 September 1815), was secretary to the Board of Revenue in the British East India Company. His mother, Anne Becher (1792–1864), was the second daughter of Harriet Becher and John Harman Becher, who was also a secretary writer for the East India Company. Richmond died in 1815, which caused Anne to send her son to England in 1816, while she remained in British India. The ship on which he travelled made a short stopover at St Helena, where the imprisoned Napoleon was pointed out to him. Once in England, he was educated at schools in Southampton and Chiswick and then at Charterhouse School, where he became a close friend of John Leech. Thackeray disliked Charterhouse and parodied it in his fiction as Slaughterhouse. Nevertheless, Thackeray was.

Summary: The story is framed by its preface and coda as a puppet show taking place at a fair; the cover illustration of the serial installments was not of the characters but of a troupe of comic actors. 9 at Speakers' Corner in Hyde Park. The narrator, variously a show manager or writer, appears at times within the work itself and is highly unreliable, repeating a tale of gossip at second or third hand. Rebecca Sharp, Becky, is a strong-willed, cunning, moneyless young woman determined to make her way in society. After leaving school, Becky stays with Amelia Sedley, Emmy, who is a good-natured, simple-minded young girl of a wealthy London family. There, Becky meets the dashing and self-obsessed Captain George Osborne, Amelia's betrothed, and Amelia's brother, Joseph 'Jos' Sedley, a clumsy and vainglorious but rich civil servant home from the East India Company. Hoping to marry Sedley, the richest young man she has.

Extrait: While the present century was in its teens and on one sunny morning in June, there drove up to the great iron gate of Miss Pinkerton's academy for young ladies on Chiswick Mall a large family coach with two fat horses in blazing harness, driven by a fat coachman in a three-cornered hat and wig at the rate of four miles an hour.
