Learning and Teaching Early Math Douglas H. Clements, Julie Sarama, 2020-12-29 The third edition of this significant and groundbreaking book summarizes current research into how young children learn mathematics and how best to develop foundational knowledge to realize more effective teaching Using straightforward practical language early math experts Douglas Clements and Julie Sarama show how learning trajectories help teachers understand children's level of mathematical understanding and lead to better teaching By focusing on the inherent delight and curiosity behind young children's mathematical reasoning learning trajectories ultimately make teaching more joyous helping teachers understand the varying levels of knowledge exhibited by individual students it allows them to better meet the learning needs of all children This thoroughly revised and contemporary third edition of Learning and Teaching Early Math remains the definitive research based resource to help teachers understand the learning trajectories of early mathematics and become confident credible professionals The new edition draws on numerous new research studies offers expanded international examples and includes updated illustrations throughout This new edition is closely linked with Learning and Teaching with Learning Trajectories LT 2 an open access web based tool for early childhood educators to learn about how children think and learn about mathematics Head to LearningTrajectories.org for ongoing updates interactive games and practical tools that support classroom learning

Motor Skills and Their Foundational Role for Perceptual, Social, and Cognitive Development

Klaus Libertus, Petra Hauf, 2017-05-18 Motor skills are a vital part of healthy development and are featured prominently both in physical examinations and in parents' baby diaries It has been known for a long time that motor development is critical for children's understanding of the physical and social world Learning occurs through dynamic interactions and exchanges with the physical and the social world and consequently movements of eyes and head arms and legs and the entire body are a critical during learning At birth we start with relatively poorly developed motor skills but soon gain eye and head control learn to reach grasp sit and eventually to crawl and walk on our own The opportunities arising from each of these motor milestones are profound and open new and exciting possibilities for exploration and interactions and learning Consequently several theoretical accounts of child development suggest that growth in cognitive social and perceptual domains are influenced by infants' own motor experiences Recently empirical studies have started to unravel the direct impact that motor skills may have on other domains of development This volume is part of this renewed interest and includes reviews of previous findings and recent empirical evidence for associations between the motor domain and other domains from leading researchers in the field of child development We hope that these articles will stimulate further research on this interesting question
