All Wheel Drive System

('79 & Early 2000 Sportswagon 300, '79 Xplorer 300)

Front Hub Engagement Limiter (Front Shaft Drive Models)

Front Shaft Drive Models are equipped with a front hub engagement limiter system which prevents engagement of 4x4 Wheel Drive (AWD) if engine RPM is above 4000. This is accomplished by the use of an AWD module (attached to the subframe under the front cover), which monitors engine RPM via the yellow/red alternator wire. AWD module selected (button pushed) prior to reaching 4000 RPM, or the Hub Limiter Module will electronically disconnect the ground path for the front hub coils (brown/white wire) until RPM falls below 4000. If AWD is selected (button pushed) below 4000 RPM, the connection to ground will be maintained by the module at any RPM. The ground path is interrupted only if an attempt is made to engage the front hubs with engine RPM above 4000. Refer to the diagram and test procedure below.

WARNING: The engagement limiter is a safety feature designed to protect the front drive components and should never be disabled, except for testing purposes. Serious injury or death may result if the limiter system is disabled or left in the testing mode. Return all wires to the proper terminals on the terminal board (according to color) and verify proper neutral light operation after testing.

CAUTION: The speed limiter control module may be permanently damaged if the machine is operated with the voltage regulator damaged and/or the battery disconnected.

Hub Engagement Limiter RPM Test

Perform the test to check hub engagement limiter RPM.

1. To perform this test, the neutral light must function properly and the battery must be in a good state of charge. Turn the key and engine stop switch on. Shift transmission to neutral and check for proper neutral light function. Repair neutral light if necessary before proceeding. Turn key to OFF position.
2. Remove front rack and terminal board cover (where applicable).
3. Verify all electrical connections are clean, tight, and on the proper terminal. Make sure voltage is present on the Red/White terminal with the key on.
4. Locate shift selector switch harness (R/W, P/R, G/Y/W, and G/Y/W wires).
5. Locate Green/White wire in switch harness and follow it to the terminal board. Disconnect this Green/White wire from the board and connect it to Gray/White terminal on terminal board.
