PROCEDURE DESCRIPTION

Teeth whitening (bleaching) is a process of lightening the color of teeth using a chemical agent that breaks down stains. The degree of whitening will vary from patient to patient, depending on the structure of the teeth, the number of applications, and/or the number of times that the system is used.

POTENTIAL RISKS AND COMPLICATIONS

1. Teeth Sensitivity: Some patients may experience teeth sensitivity during the treatment. The sensitivity is usually transient and subsides after the completion of the treatment.
2. Root Surface Whitening: Can cause temporary whitening of gum or soft tissue in the mouth, particularly if higher concentrations of the whitening agent are used.
3. Restoration to-Letter Whitening: The existing dental work such as crowns or veneers will not bleach and therefore may need to be replaced to match the new teeth shade.
4. Irreversible Whitening: Teeth with multiple restorations, bands, or caps due to orthodontic use or trauma may not achieve a uniform color change.
5. Rebound: After a period (usually 2-3 years), the teeth may return again, necessitating treatment not to return to their original color.
6. Throat Irritation or Burns: Accidental ingestion of the whitening gel may lead to throat irritation or burns.
